

Selectmen hold up funds for veterans' club

by Arlene Surprenant

A $750 appropriation to the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be withheld from the Nee Ellsworth Post in Wilmington pending the outcome of a court case and police investigation into a recent alleged racial incident at the Main Street headquarters.

VFW Commander Elmer Parker allegedly refused a fishing club access to quarters and ejected a black member of the fishing club from the building after making pointed comments about his race. The charges have triggered a police investigation into the matter and the alleged civil rights violation was due to go to court yesterday (Tuesday).

On Monday, selectmen Chairman Mark Haldane strongly recommended that the board withhold payment of the $750 stipend voted to the VFW in April. He maintained it was improper for the town to release the money in the light of the incident and the court action and said it would be "extremely inappropriate" to support the VFW monetarily at this time. Haldane added he came to that conclusion after reviewing police records on the case.

Selectman Bob Cain asked about the legality of withholding money voted by town meeting and questioned if the board was "punishing" an entire group for the action of one individual. Town Manager Michael Cairns said the board could direct him to withhold the funds on a temporary basis.

Chester Bruce was angered by the alleged incident.

"This should not happen anywhere in this town. Let the club clean up its own act," he said. Bruce went along with Haldane's suggestion but modified it so that the funds would only be withheld until the court case is settled and the VFW takes action on the court's decision.

The board unanimously favored both the motion and the amendment.

Parker facing arraignment on August 19

Wilmington V.F.W. Commander Elmer Parker faces arraignment in Woburn District Court on August 19, to answer a charge of criminal civil rights violation arising from an alleged incident on June 18.

On Tuesday, First Assistant Clerk Magistrate Bennie Berardi ruled that sufficient evidence existed to justify the criminal complaint trial.

According to witnesses, Parker on June 18 ejected the members of a Wilmington fishing club from the V.F.W. post, allegedly because they had brought a black man into the club with them. Parker allegedly hurled racial epithets at the group while ejecting them, and refunded the money the fishing club had paid to use the V.F.W. hall for their monthly meetings.

Inspector Mike Celata from the Wilmington police was on hand for the probable cause hearing Tuesday in Woburn District Court, as were a few members of the fishing club and of the V.F.W.

Off the Clock appears today

The Town Crier announces the launching of our new Off the Clock feature page, which appears this week on Page 18.

In this hectic world, we hope that Off the Clock offers our readers a respite from hard news, providing such "lighter" reading as recipes, humor and activities.

Off the Clock will appear on a monthly basis, and suggestions are always appreciated.

Hearing slated for 'vicious' dogs

by Arlene Surprenant

Dog owners Richard Jackson of Salem Street and John Eldredge and Kelly Welch of Hopkins Street are being invited to appear before the Wilmington Board of Selectmen next month to answer complaints about their animals. Records show that all of the dogs have been deemed "vicious" since they have bitten or attacked another animal.

Complaints on the two dogs owned by Jackson and the dog owned by the Hopkins Street residents have been filed with the board of health. Because the attacks were against animals and not human beings, health officials said the two cases are out of their jurisdiction and a final decision to either restrain or remove the dogs is now up to selectmen.

On Monday, selectmen agreed to act on the recommendation of the town manager to hold a hearing August 24 to decide on the fate of the dogs. All parties involved will be invited to appear before the board at that time. Selectman Chester Bruce suggested, in order to avoid opening a "Pandora's Box," only legitimate cases recommended by health officials be brought before his board.

Home sweet motor home

The Bamberg family will live in a motor home for five weeks, while on a cross-country trip. The trip is being paid for by the Make-A-Wish Foundation for Jonathan, a Leukemia patient. From top left, they are Pete, Jon, Andy, Danielle and Joe. On either side are parents Dan and Beth. The baby, Marty, was asleep when the photo was taken.

Boy makes a wish, family takes a trip

by Arlene Surprenant

Every youngster dreams of having his wish come true. Jonathan Bamberg is about to have his granted in a big way.

On Wednesday, Jonathan and his family embarked on a five week cross country camping trip made possible by the Make a Wish Foundation of Boston. The dream to view some of this country's natural beauty is shared by Jonathan's parents Beth and Dan, older brothers Joey, 13, and Peter, 11, and younger siblings Andrew, 6, Danielle, 3, and four months old Martin, the newest member of the family.

Jonathan himself is nine years old and a student at the Shawsheen School. Two years ago he was diagnosed with leukemia. A week later he went into remission and has been in remission ever since. But living with leukemia hasn't been easy. It's meant monthly visits to the Pediatric Oncology Clinic at Massachusetts General Hospital, which put the family in touch with the Make a Wish Foundation. It's meant chemotherapy treatments to kill off the bad cells in Jonathan's body and reduce the number of white cells. It's taken extra effort to keep up the family's spirit and remain positive in the face of uncertainty and Jonathan's pain. It's been hard on his mom, who most often was the one who accompanied her son to the clinic. It's also been hard on Jonathan's brothers and sister who were often overlooked by well-meant visitors bringing gifts to their brother.

"We've all been through alot. All the kids had to give up things. Jonathan's taking shots every week. I could not imagine most kids going through what he has gone through," says Dan.

But all that will be put aside, for a little while at least, as the family fulfills a dream and follows their planned itinerary. Their journey will take them through the Northern Plains to places like the Badlands, Big Horn, Yellowstone, and the Grand Tetons. Once they reach the West Coast, the Bambergs plan to visit Disneyland and take in an Oakland A's game before heading home through the Southwest. On the way they will visit such attractions as Mesa Verde, the Grand Canyon, and Mt. Rushmore, which to Jonathan will be the highlight of his whole trip. This trip has been in the back of the family's mind for a long time.

"Last fall we discussed the possibility of making such a trip. But we realized we really couldn't afford to do it at that time," explains Dan, who works for Lotus Development Corp. in Cambridge. While the rest of the family had dropped the subject temporarily, Jonathan kept bringing it up. In December, with the encouragement of Jonathan's doctors at Mass General, the Bambergs decided to apply to the Make a Wish Foundation.

The Foundation sent the volunteer team of Linda Sherleto and Lisa Koslowsky to the Bamberg's home to interview them and write down not one wish but two, just in case the first couldn't be fulfilled. "We were not sure they could pull it off. But then things kept falling into place," remembers Dan with a smile. The trip is looked on by Dan as an educational opportunity to show his children the wonders of their own country. But it will also give the whole family some much needed time together without the distractions of work, doctor's visits, and everyday life.

According to Bonnie Clark, a spokesman for the Make a Wish Foundation, the family will travel in a 34 foot long motor home donated by Holiday Rambler. The $80,000 luxury recreational vehicle will be filled with $1500 worth of gas throughout the journey. That gas is being donated by Amoco and Mobil Oil. Other donations include 28 free nights at Campgrounds of America, free passes to Disneyland and the Oakland A's donated by officials of those organizations, and $2,000 in spending money donated by the Foundation itself. Along the way, other chapters of the Make a Wish Foundation will provide some "extras" and the Bambergs have a standing invitation to a tour and reception at the Holiday Rambler plant in Indiana. The highlight of that visit is sure to be the giant cake featuring a map of the Bamberg's route across the United States.

Before leaving Wilmington, Jonathan and his dad made a memorable appearance on the Tom Bergeron radio show on WBZ Tuesday and were interviewed by the local cable station. Excitement built Tuesday night when Dan drove the sleek white and blue motor home up from Auburn and into the family's driveway for the very first time. As he pulled in, multi-colored balloons tied to the side porch floated in the breeze. Inside the family was gathered with Linda and Lisa, who were on hand to share in the results of all their planning and hard work. Supper was on hold that night until pizza was delivered to the front door, somewhere around 7:45 p.m.

"It's been a long day," said Dan a little wearily. But he brightens as he adds "we're just really excited and ready to go."

While the family is away, relatives will house-sit for them.

The Bambergs want to make sure to extend their thanks to all who had a part in Jonathan's dream. Most grateful of all is Jonathan, who will always remember the year his wish came true.

The Make A Wish Foundation

The Make a Wish Foundation was founded in 1980 and has grown until there are now 77 chapters in 47 states. The Boston chapter was started in 1987. Over 200 wishes have been granted through the local chapter alone.

The Foundation, headed by President Dan Sheedy, exists solely on contributions. Only medical personnel, social workers, or a parent may refer wishes to the Foundation. To raise money, the Foundation often seeks corporate sponsors or memorial donations. Fund-raisers are also held by groups to bring in cash gifts.

Anyone wishing to volunteer their time or make a donation to the Make a Wish Foundation may call the Boston office at 426-4112 or write to the Foundation care of 101 Federal Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Timeless work

Repair work on the steeple of the Congregational Church has progressed to the point where there is no time, at least on the face of it. While steeplejacks from the Mid-Mass. Church Renovation Co. are still working on other parts of the steeple, the clock faces have been removed for repair, refabrication and gilding of the hands and numbers. TOXIC members still seek answers

by Arlene Surprenant
Judy Fittery and Ken Meuse from TOXIC, a local group formed to learn more about materials buried in Rocco's Landfill in Tewksbury and ways to contain possible contamination, told Wilmington selectmen Monday they are still seeking answers. They said though the sense of urgency has declined somewhat with the release of a recent report stating only low levels of arsenic and lead have been found on site, TOXIC continues to meet with state and local officials in order to afford protection to their neighborhood.

TOXIC members have been seeking to make the property a Superfund Site and, more immediately, to surround the area with a fence to keep out local children, who often play on the dirt piles and debris. Fittery said Monday she had been told to call an EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) agent to check out the possibility that a chemical barrel site in Wilmington, that is adjacent to the dump, is also a Superfund Site.

In an update before Wilmington selectmen, Fittery said her group as well as congressional leaders and Tewksbury officials balked at the second report stating chemicals found were not above toxic levels. While they hope that's true, said Fittery and Meuse, they want another test conducted to make sure of the report's accuracy. They claim there is too big a discrepancy between the first test done on site and the second. The first test revealed 67 different contaminants were present in the water, soil, and air, said Fittery. That test was done in warmer weather while the second was done in the winter during a cold snap. Both members claim the weather conditions may be partly responsible for the discrepancy in findings.

"We're concerned; they're not thorough enough for us," said Meuse.

Fittery also reported that the Tewksbury Board of Health will be doing a health study in conjunction with the John Snow Institute within a three mile radius of the landfill. She added Tewksbury officials would like to coordinate their efforts with that of their counterparts in Wilmington to do a more conclusive study. The landfill borders the town of Wilmington. Tewksbury plans to put up No Trespassing signs to keep children and the curious out of the entire landfill area.

Meetings have been ongoing with local and state politicians. Fittery said a meeting would be held Tuesday with state representatives, the EPA, the attorney general's office, and others to continue to seek answers. Senator Pat McGovern and Rep. James Miceli have already put in a request for a fence around the area, she added. Selectmen reiterated they would support the group in any way possible.

"I think it affects us all," summed up Bob Cain.

Service news

Russell Brown

Navy Seaman Recruit Russell Brown, son of Laurie Jean Brown of Shawsheen Street, Tewksbury, has completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, IL. He joined the Navy in June 1991 under the delayed entry program.

Capt. John S. Murray

Capt. John S. Murray, son of Joseph and Inez Murray of Faulkner Avenue, Wilmington, has been decorated with the Air Force Commendation Medal.

The medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

The captain is a 1979 graduate of Shawsheen Tech.

Auto students in running for national award

The Automotive Program at Shawsheen Tech has been chosen as the Mass. candidate for a nationwide award. Selected by the State Department of Education as the Mass. entry for the Motor Vehicle Manufacturing Association, Inc. American Vocational Association (MVMA/AVA) Award of Excellence in Vocational Automotive Programs, the Tech entry was among a group of programs "of such excellent quality that our job and our task were made that much harder," wrote Elaine Cadillac, director, Bureau of Program Services.

In May, Shawsheen students captured a second place finish in the statewide Chrysler AAA Trouble-shooting Contest, and had placed second in a written qualifying test in March. The program has added and upgraded diagnostic and repair equipment over the past few years; in 1991, the Tech program was certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) in all eight areas of automotive repair. The Tech is one of four secondary schools in the state to qualify in all eight areas.

Scout fundraiser placed on hold

by Arlene Surprenant

Fear of setting a bad precedent caused Wilmington selectmen to hold back permission for a local Boy Scout troop to raise funds on town and school property.

Though they said they would have no problem with a one day fundraiser on the common, selectmen on Monday nixed a proposal by Troop 136 to sell town T-shirts and sweatshirts at local sports events over an unspecified period of time.

"It's clear that we're going to run the risk of setting a dangerous precedent here," Town Manager Michael Cairra told parent representatives.

Cairra agreed with Chairman Mark Haldane that the troop would most likely need a Hawkers and Pedlers license to sell clothing in the fall and the spring. Otherwise the town would be in danger of giving a blanket permit to solicit on town property, said the manager.

Chester Bruce called any decision "premature" since selectmen have not been given specific dates for the fundraiser. Parent Linda Mac Donald said leaders had contacted some but not all of the youth groups in town about the proposal.

Haldane said it wasn't the board's intention to create more red tape for the troop, but to get more information so the best decision could be made. Board members suggested the troop leaders inform the school committee of their plans and come back to selectmen when plans and dates are firm.

Bakery relocates at Colonial Mall

Rocky's North End Bakery has found a new home. The bakery, owned by Rocco Scali, will be reopening in early August at its new location in the Colonial Park Mall in Wilmington.

Local health officials have approved a food permit for the store, which will sell deli meats and home-baked goods. The bakery was formerly housed near the Cumberland Farms store on Main Street. It closed after the building was sold.

KEOGH TAX FORMS ARE DUE

Here's a reminder for self-employed individuals with Keogh plans; the annual report to the Internal Revenue Service, covering all activity in the plan through the end of last year, is due by July 31.

The IRS has made it easier to comply. If, for instance, you have a one-participant plan (a spouse doesn't count) with less than $100,000 in it, you don't have to file. Note that all one-participant plans owned by the same employer must be combined to see if you're exempt from filing. If you terminated the plan in 1991, you must file. Form 5500EZ is designed for single participant plans. Schedule P, an annual return of the employee benefit trust, is usually required with it.

If an employer has more than one plan, and they aggregate more than $100,000, he or she must file, even if it is a one participant plan, and a separate form must be filed for each plan.

If you need an extension of two and a half months or more, complete form 5558 before the due date of the 5500 return.

Selectmen delay vote on audit firm

by Arlene Surprenant
A misunderstanding led Wilmington selectmen to table a decision to choose an auditing firm for the town until their next meeting August 24. Members of the Audit Advisory Committee said Monday they would provide the board with the pros and cons of each of the four firms which were most qualified so selectmen can make the final decision.

Former Finance Committee members Paul Palizzolo and Neil Waisnor and selectmen Chairman Mark Haldane were appointed in May to serve on the audit committee to sift through the candidates and make a recommendation to the board. It was the committee's understanding that meant recommending the most qualified firm to the board. At Monday's selectmen's meeting the committee unanimously recommended the Winchester firm of Tucci and Rosselli. It was felt this firm had the broadest experience in municipal audits and could have the most experienced staff person devote the most hours to Wilmington audits for the years 1991 through 1993. In addition, Tucci and Rosselli submitted the lowest bid.

A total of 12 companies sent in proposals, including J. Deislinger, a local firm. Besides Tucci and Rosselli and J. Deislinger, other finalists included Grusti and Hings-ton and Verdolino and Lowey.

Palizzolo and Haldane told selectmen all four firms have handled at least 10 municipal or regional school audits, all had good references, and all were in the ballpark of the $13,900 per year bid submitted by Tucci and Rosselli. In the past three years, audit costs have ranged from $18,000 to $20,000 per year.

Chester Bruce felt his board should support local business and give priority to the local firm. He noted, by not going along with the Wilmington candidate, "it's the same as giving Massport to Japan."

Haldane disagreed saying the board has an obligation to choose the firm which would offer the most to the town.

Bob Cain reminded the committee it was the selectmen's responsibility to make the final decision and asked for information on all four firms. Haldane said selectmen could accept or reject the committee's choice. Palizzolo said it was his understanding the committee was formed to make the selection job easier for selectmen by recommending only the best firm.

In the end, a decision was tabled until the requested information is forthcoming. Palizzolo said he could have it by the board's next meeting.

Duggan seeks consistency

by Arlene Surprenant
Acting on a request by Selectmen Gerry Duggan, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen agreed to be consistent in giving all employees who retire a letter of gratitude for their service to the town as well as a token. That token, in the past, has been a pewter replica of a Baldwin Apple or a silver Revere bowl.

Duggan raised the issue of employee recognition saying only a few of the six recent retirees have received a gift from the board. Duggan himself retired from the local fire department.

Town Manager Michael Caira said a token of appreciation has usually been given by the board when fellow employees arrange for a planned event to honor the retiree. He and the rest of the board said they had no objection to either inviting the outgoing employee to a selectmen's meeting to thank them for their service to the town or gifting everyone who retires with a small token of appreciation.

"If you're going to give a Baldwin Apple, then give them to everyone," said Chester Bruce, adding, "I think they should all be recognized."

The board voted unanimously to be consistent in the future.

Annapolis appointee

Positions filled by manager

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington residents will soon be seeing two new faces around town.

Humphrey "Skip" Moynihan has been appointed the town's principal assessor to replace retiring assessor Tony Krzeminski. Moynihan, said Town Manager Michael Caira Monday, is "highly regarded in the assessment field" and was Principal Assessor in Lowell for the past 10 years. Moynihan will begin work August 17 at a starting salary of $47,000.

James DiOrio of Patches Pond Lane will replace Eric Judson on the Wilmington Planning Board beginning this week. Judson had already resigned because of time constraints. DiOrio and his family have resided in Wilmington for 16 years. Caira said the new appointee has been in the surveying field for 22 years and brings a wealth of background and experience to the board.

House passes 'no bail' bill

With the rate of violent crimes on the rapid increase, Rep. James R. Miceli and his colleagues have made a concentrated effort to produce measures directly combatting this severe problem. The latest in a wave of new proposals is the passage of the "No Bail" bill by the House of Representatives. This measure grants judges more freedom to deny and individual's release on bail if the alleged assailant poses a threat to the safety of another individual or community.

Rep. Miceli hopes the implementation of this law will deter violent crimes by keeping those charged with crimes off the streets until they go to trial. He also hopes that this will discourage future offenders from engaging in violent crimes.

The "No Bail" bill passed easily through the House of Representatives and is presently being acted on by the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Letters to the editor often provide interesting commentary and, in the case of the recent letter from "J. G. Rose" concerning the Wilmington Housing Authority "network," it provides the reader with the entertainment of speculating whether "Rose's" letter was actually penned by State Representative James Robert Miceli (D-Deming Way), the leader of the true Wilmington Housing Authority "network."

For years, Miceli has controlled his cronies, Ella Belmore, A. Daniel Gillis and Joan Sadowski, and, through them, the Wilmington Housing Authority. After all, if the state representative can get a constituent's mother into elderly housing without being bothered by "technicalities" like waiting lists and housing preferences, it yields major political dividends. For a rep known for constituent services, access to the Housing Authority has been vital.

It is a coincidence that Belmore, Sadowski and Gillis are seen more often with each other than Clinton, Gore and Hillary — it's a field day for conspiratorialists.

Gillis, Belmore and Sadowski all contribute to Miceli's campaigns. Miceli returns the financial favors when they face the voters. This is the real "network."

The "network's" gradual demise began in 1990 when Michael Donovan was elected to the Wilmington Housing Authority and began to challenge the political abuses of the Miceli gang. Shortly after the resignation of another Miceli contributor, Elaine Hachey, from them W.H.A., the Weld Administration appointed Tom Siracusa to the state slot, over the objection of (surprise!) James Robert, who saw his grip over the Authority slipping.

After Belmore continually failed to abide by Authority directives and steadfastly refused to provide commissioners with financial and other information requested, the Authority, in accordance with procedures furnished by the state E.O.C.D., voted to terminate her contract. Miceli went ballistic, screaming at the state officials that they must save his friend and his power.

When the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development became involved Miceli went screaming at the Feds that they should stay out of the controversy. Why would the state representative put his personal prestige on the line unless there was something to be gained or something to hide?

Also, Miceli was behind Belmore at the Conservation Commission ...until she was fired.

"J.G. Rose" (or is it J.R. Miceli?) makes accusations without identifying a motive or the harm the alleged "network" has caused. If "political trickery" is at work, we should look at those who have two decades of experience in "political trickery." Jim Miceli thrives on it. He has built fences that divide and then attempts to conquer the divided factions.

This time it did not work. A woman and her family will be spared eviction and the political power at the Housing Authority will soon be outside his grip.

And as an aside, I supported Joan Sadowski in 1991, to my own detriment, and Chet Bruce in his 1992 re-election bid for selectman against Tom Siracusa.

I must be a "network" double agent.

P.S. I don't know how I became part of this "network," but my image is improved by being associated with them.

Briefly in Politics

The Town Crier has learned the Wilmington School Committee is contemplating a contract buyout proposal which would hasten the departure of Superintendent of Public Schools Bill Fay. The local education board recently cast a unanimous vote to sidestep renewing Fay's contract which would expire in December.

Lawyers for the committee and superintendent are reportedly meeting to negotiate "what Fay's entitled to and maybe a little more" a highly placed school official told the Town Crier. The source said, however, that any buyout package would pale in comparison to the highly controversial and well remembered buyback check which was the departing gift to Fay's predecessor

Bob Horan, who left Wilmington with more than $64,000 in sick time and vacation time buyback.

Any such payment to Fay is likely to be considerably smaller as Fay does not enjoy the 100 percent buyback benefit which was a plum in Horan's contract.

...In Tewksbury, Merrimack Valley congressional candidates are surveying their new turf. In the new redistricting plan Tewksbury was taken from the seventh district and attached to the fifth, where a sizzling battle for a seat in congress is being fought on both the Democratic and Republican sides.

G.O.P. candidates Mike Conway and Paul Cronin have spent the past month slugging it out, each trying to paint the other as "establishment." Cronin formally announced his candidacy this week and added media consultant Charlie Manning to his campaign team. Manning is known for an aggressive campaign style and may be planning a counterattack to Conway's salvos that Cronin has improperly raised money as a candidate through his connections at Massport, where he is a gubernatorial appointee to the board of directors.

Conway was the first to enter the fifth district race and made a media splash earlier in the year with his rubber checks (literally rubber), a spoof on the check-kiting scandal in Congress.

On the Democratic side, Tewksbury voters will be familiar with former First Assistant District Attorney Marty Meehan who also announced his candidacy this week, making a stop in Tewksbury. Meehan is taking on the incumbent Chester Atkins who announced his re-election bid the same day.

...Wilmington may... or may not get an education aid boost of $287,200. Though Governor William F. Weld has vetoed a section of the state budget which would enhance school aid, insisting that the money be tied to comprehensive education reforms, the Legislature may override the veto to the pleasure of local budget masters.

Town Manager Mike Caira said it is unclear if the entire amount would be pegged for schools and that a portion may be applied to "indirect costs" like public buildings.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

This past weekend Tewksbury enjoyed the return of the Billerica Irish-American Social Club's Festival held on Livingston Street.

I met families from as far south as Brockton and as far north as Pelham who came to enjoy the many festivities and family oriented entertainment. Last week, I had the opportunity to view some of the hundreds of thousands of visitors to Boston during the Tall Ships week. While the Irish Festival was obviously smaller in scope, Tewksbury gained much of the same benefits for hosting this event.

People from across New England had an opportunity to see what a wonderful town we have. Local businesses got a well needed shot in the arm and judging from their attendance, politicians enjoyed the crowd. I hope the festival is here for many years to come. Congratulations to the organizers for a job well done.

Cead Mile Faille,
Charles T. Coppola

Dear Larz:

It is amazing. I read in the newspapers how the EPA is protecting our wetlands. I read in the Town Crier how the Conservation Commission is protecting our wetlands. I even read that the Conservation Commission holds hearings regarding encroachment on wetlands.

What my neighbors and I want to know is how come two house lots are being prepared in the middle of a swamp that for 30 years has been regarded as unbuildable. One of my neighbors called the Conservation Commission when trees were cut down in the swamp on Woburn Street across from Hathaway Road and Marie Drive. When she got no satisfactory answer, she suggested that "someone got paid." The person at ConCom got indignant. I then called the Board of Health to ask where you put a septic system in a swamp, especially when that swamp eventually drains into the Brown's Crossing wellfield. I was told that I had to speak to the Director, but he was too busy to speak to me at that time. I was requested to leave my name and number and was told he would get back to me. Would anybody be surprised that he didn't?

I finally talked to a friend on the ConCom and was informed that the state commission overruled the town commission, which it is legally entitled to do, at the request of a state representative of this town who does not represent this precinct. I don't even get a chance to vote against this guy. So where is our protection? Our water gets fouled and some poor sucker is going to pay big bucks to have water in his basement and a septic system that defies logic.

Sincerely yours,
Harry N. Atamian

Dear Larz:

A few weeks ago your paper reported, on an incident, since reproduced by several papers. It is the issue around the Wilmington V.F.W., of racial slurs and discrimination. I am a veteran who has spent much of the past 20 years helping to clean up the once-tarnished reputation of veterans of the Vietnam era. I am also a person with a disability paralyzed from the shoulders down due to an accident shortly after my honorable discharge.

I enlisted in the military because I believed to do so was in defense of my constitutional freedoms and to help guarantee those freedoms for all citizens of the United States. Discrimination and segregation, racial, ethnic or otherwise, were not part of those constitutional freedoms. Since becoming a member of the nation's largest minority, people with disabilities, I am aware that there is a higher degree of humanism, where the level of melanin is petty and insignificant, where one's body is revered as the vehicle for sustaining only the body part that truly separates human from non-human, that being the brain.

The brain is the center of culture, of dreams, of love, hate and indifference. It is our proverbial heart, and democracy itself is a product of its function. As a mobility-impaired person, I am discriminated against from entering and using the Wilmington V.F.W.'s facilities for their lack of wheelchair access. In solidarity with all those who believe in the American way, I call on my sisters and brothers for democracy to unite against the continuation of the harboring of this fascist seed in Wilmington, to raze the building, disband its board of directors, to relocate, start afresh with the Gettysburg Address as their credo and on the present site build something that can be seen as a reminder to all that, here in Wilmington, we will not tolerate crimes against the people, for we are democracy, we are America.

Sincerely,
Laurence W. Curtis

Bottled water is the fastest growing beverage in the country. It is a billion dollar business, which is why soft drink and beer companies are getting into the market. The boom in bottled water sales can be attributed mainly to a poorly informed media's portrayal of tap water as unhealthy. This bad rap on tap water has made the public believe that if they can buy it in plastic jugs in the supermarket, they will be better off. This line of thinking is not only erroneous, it is expensive.

Now, there is a new wrinkle to the bottled water craze. Some entrepreneurs are trying to capitalize on the consumer's distaste for tap water by selling them — tap water.

Recently, the Wilmington Board of Health reviewed a proposed water vending machine to be located in the old Fotomat building at Lucci's parking lot. Similar water dispensers have been tried in other parts of New England. The usual location is in a local supermarket. It is designed to compete against bottled water and usually sells for about 15 cents less per gallon.

Here is how it works. The customer takes his own plastic jug to the vending machine, which is about the size of a soft drink machine. Inside the black box is a water meter, a filter, an ultraviolet light for disinfection. The water source is a small feeder line connected to the town's water pipe.

The vending machine company's propaganda usually extols the virtues of the "purified" water and how bacteria and contaminants have been removed from the water. The obvious implication being the town's water is contaminated, which is erroneous.

The fact is that municipal water supplies are the most regulated and analyzed beverage in the country. There are 84 different parameters that the EPA requires to be monitored.

With the emergence of these water vending machines, the Mass. DEP has ruled that the operators of these dispensers must adhere to the same requirements as a public water supply. This applies to anyone who treats or alters an approved municipal drinking water supply. This means that a state certified operator must be in charge of and accept responsibility for the machine and its product. The same water quality tests must be performed as with the town's supply. Many vending machine operators are not aware of these requirements.

Does it make any sense to re-filter the town's water supply, which has already been put through carbon filters and meets all water quality standards? Not to me, but maybe I am biased.

If the proponent of the vending machine at Lucci's can meet the DEP's and town's requirements, it might be appropriate to charge a higher than normal water rate for each gallon of town water he sells. A rate of five cents per gallon would be reasonable. After all, this entrepreneur is making a profit on a product produced by the town. The town has invested millions of dollars in wells and water treatment plants. He has invested a minimal amount, but could realize a huge profit. To understand the magnitude of the profit, consider the cost of this vending machine operator compared to a bottled water company. He doesn't need to spend any money in developing a well or spring; doesn't have any shipping and delivery costs, and treatment costs are minimal since the town's water has already been treated. To put this in perspective, if the vending machine sold the water at 30 cents per gallon, it would be a 100 percent increase over the price it bought it from the town. A tidy return on investment in any business.

Alternatives to tap water are becoming more numerous. Consumers should understand the pros and cons of each before paying a premium price.

Dear Larz:

This is in response to the abomination the Republican leadership hoisted upon us in the form of a new redistricting map.

This map is designed to benefit only Bill Weld and the Republican party. With the sole idea of drawing districts to assist Republicans in their quest for election to Congress. The public's need pales in contrast to the needs of the Governor in his forcing this plan upon us.

Our incumbent state representative voted in favor of this atrocity. The 23rd Middlesex District, (Burlington, Bedford, and Precinct 3 in Wilmington), is located on a Congressional District that we have little to no relationship or similarities.

The 6th Congressional District is presently represented by Congressman Nick Marvoulas, and includes Salem, Peabody, Lynn, Amesbury, and the Cape Ann area. Our three communities are surrounded by Congressional District and communities with more similarities than the communities on the North Shore.

If you look at the map, it looks ugly. Governor Weld himself even called it, "ugly."

One argument for voting for this plan might be that to defeat the plan would send it to Federal Court, where they would determine the boundaries. My response to that is, "it couldn't be any worse than this foolishness."

Both the Democratic leadership and the Republican leadership had good redistricting maps early in the discussion, but neither of those choices prevailed. We are left with this insane map, that seems to reflect a real contempt for the people who will eventually be represented.

The Democratic leadership must also accept blame for allowing this map to pass. The 23rd Middlesex District will suffer under this new plan. We are out here in the wilderness of the 6th Congressional District and will receive crumbs left over after the other North Shore communities take all the goodies.

A better question than, "What was Mrs. Brenton thinking about when she voted for this plan?" would be, "Who was she thinking about?" She certainly was not thinking about how this monstrosity would affect the 23rd Middlesex District.

The July 27, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

A South Boston warehouse firm, Service Warehouse Inc., appeared before the selectmen Monday night to discuss the possibility of locating on a 10-acre plot of land known as the Murphy Farm on Ballardvale Street.

It took the Wilmington Police Department only 32 hours to present a prisoner in Woburn Court, after an armed robbery and "pistol whipping" at Silver Lake. The crime took place at about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Officers Jay Palmer and James Burke, working from leads; with the assistance of Woburn's Composite artist, Officer Tim Sullivan and Somerville detectives, presented Robert Duda of Somerville in Court Monday morning, where he was ordered held on $5000 bail, scheduled to appear for a probable cause hearing the next day.

According to Nosey Nancy, Eddie Langone of Nassau Avenue, serving with the Marine Corps in Vietnam participated in Operation Arizona, a search and destroy mission.

Also according to Nancy, Charlie Ravagni, Jr. of Fay Street was named to the dean's list at Franklin Institute; Mike Kasabuski and Billy Hennessey were cruising around the West Indies and Cuba on war maneuvers and Fred Laffin of Veranda Avenue was serving aboard an icebreaker in the eastern Arctic.

Grant's at Wilmington Plaza offered a 15.5 cu. ft. Bradford upright freezer for $188.00.

Elia's offered jumbo lobsters at .89 a pound; steamer clams, four pounds, $1; and chicken wings, five pound pail, $1.49.

The July 21, 1982 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

A total ban on lawn watering was issued and the water in the Astle Street reserve tank had reached zero over the weekend and resulted in 800 Tewksbury homes being hooked up to the Andover water system.

A front page picture showed Selectman Dick Trueba gazing into a toilet tank, watching the demonstration of a water saving device, scheduled to go on public display.

Elisa Ritchie of Laura Road completed an internship in the Boston office of Congressman Edward Markey.

A man carrying a coat over his arm and a gun in his other hand made off with an undetermined amount of cash from Anton's Cleaners at Stadium Plaza.

Melissa Baker of Pratt Street joined the Army National Guard and started active duty training at Fort Dix on June 16.

Sewing machine maintenance and repair was scheduled to be the subject of a lecture offered by the Middlesex County Ext. Service at Patten Public Library.

With the help of the state, an area to the rear of the DPW building would soon become the location of a chemical storage shed. DPW Supt. Pattison mand the announcement. It was believed that storing road salt in the shed would cut down on the sodium reaching water supplies.

Great pitching by Billy Meuse paced the Tewksbury American Little League All Stars to an 11-2 win over the Chelmsford Fitts in the District 14 All Star Tournament.

A new ledger book was donated to the Golden Age Club by Bob Ford.

Grievance panel formed

by Arlene Surprenant
Judson Miller, Terry McKenna, and Sumate Tumsaroch were all appointed to a newly formed grievance panel. The panel was created by the Wilmington Housing Authority, in conjunction with the Deming Way Tenants' Association, to meet state and federal regulations and to review any complaints brought forward by the tenants of subsidized homes under the board's jurisdiction.

According to the grievance process, complaints go to the executive director, who first tries to resolve the issue herself. Even if the issue is resolved, it must also come to the panel for review. If the issue concerns rent, all rent must be paid prior to the grievance going to the committee, said WHA Chairman Tom Siracusa.

Miller, a former Wilmington resident who now lives out of town, was chosen by vote of the Tenants' Association. Past president Jo Wakefield was chosen as an alternate. Judson called the panel "something that's long overdue."

Board member Dot Butler placed

McKenna's name in nomination. McKenna is a local fireman with a mother in residence at Deming Way. He told authority members he'd like to serve on the committee because he'd "just like to see the tenants get their due." The board made him a panel member in a three to two vote.

Dan Gillis placed Tumsaroch's name in nomination. Tumsaroch, a Wilmington resident for 15 years, said he wished to serve on the committee in order to give something back to the town and "work for the community." Tumsaroch is the husband of Phyllis Tumsaroch, administrative assistant of the housing authority. Tumsaroch was approved unanimously.

All three members will serve a term not less than one year nor more than three. Authority members are still seeking two more residents to serve as alternates on the panel. Local citizens interested in the volunteer positions can submit their names to the office in Deming Way or contact any member of the authority.

WCS donates funds to schools

by Arlene Surprenant

The Wilmington School System is $5,000 richer thanks to a donation from the Wilmington Community Schools.

At their last meeting, the school committee learned there was a profit of $5,000 from the two adult education sessions this year. That profit was turned over to the system by WCS Director Karen DiGiovine. The director told the committee she took in total gross receipts of $26,000. She suggested the board use the money to purchase new computers and upgrade computer classrooms.

Board members thanked DiGiovine for the donation saying it will help out in this time of financial need. Some raised questions on DiGiovine's role and the stipend of $4,000 paid to the director for both sessions. Committee chairman Bob Peterson cut off any discussion relating to a past disagreement between the director and her former assistant, Melissa Nobile.

Committee members also agreed to extend the deadline to receive applications from residents interested in the director's position next year. The job was posted in this paper and the deadline has since past.

Norton awarded honorary degree

Augustus T. "Ted" Norton of 204 Wildwood St., Wilmington was recently among 480 Wentworth Institute of Technology alumni to receive honorary bachelor of science degrees when they became charter members of Wentworth's new Black & Gold Society.

Nearly 200 of them were present to receive honorary degrees and membership in the Black & Gold Society, formed to honor alumni who have attained a 50 year or greater anniversary of their graduation. The ceremonies were the highlight of this year's reunion weekend at Wentworth, America's leading coeducational institution of design, engineering, and technology.

As part of the Black & Gold initiation, Norton, Class of 1937, was awarded an honorary baccalaureate degree in recognition of a lifetime of work and achievement.

Prior to retirement, Norton was employed at High Voltage Engineering in Burlington.

I wouldn't be sitting here talking about my doctor if he hadn't performed remarkably. In fact, I wouldn't be sitting here at all.

Susan Callahan is thankful to be alive.

Bleeding from the throat, she and her husband feared the worst when she arrived at the New England Memorial Hospital Emergency Room. But within 1½ hours, Susan went from being at death's door to being a very lucky, stabilized patient.

Dr. José Marcal performed an emergency endoscopic procedure that enabled him not only to diagnose a burst blood vessel but, remarkably, to treat the life-threatening condition right in the emergency room. Dr. Marcal's quick response, and his ability to perform this advanced procedure, not only saved Susan from surgery; it saved her, period.

New England Memorial Hospital is on the forefront of endoscopic diagnosis and treatment. Susan Callahan gratefully acknowledges that without Dr. Marcal, without the quick attention in the emergency room, and without a technological breakthrough like endoscopy, she wouldn't have a story to tell. Especially one with a happy ending.

Bill to curb violence

Representative Miceli (D-Wilmington) has announced that he is a cosponsor of legislation aimed at diminishing the incidents of domestic violence in Massachusetts. The bill, S1628 will establish a computerized record keeping system of all domestic violence cases in the Commonwealth.

This measure will help criminal justice officials access information on suspects including violations of restraining orders, rape and assault. Police and court officers will have the most current information available. Child abuse cases will also be tracked.

Hills Fences, 2230 Main St., Tewksbury • 658-5358

Good neighbors make good fences. Your neighbor makes these.
Visit Hills Fences today!

Good fences make good neighbors... but who makes good fences? Hills Fences does! For fourteen years residents of Tewksbury and Wilmington have been leaning on their neighbor's fences. Hill's fences.

The showroom is on Main St (Rt 38) opposite Haffner's Gas Station in South Tewksbury. They have dozens of fence styles on display as well as an example of their custom built sheds. But that is only the start. Customers can choose the exact fence they want and draw upon Hill's years of experience to guide them in the best kind of fencing to use. Custom built fences are easy to get. Hills have their own shop to join all the elements to make a beautiful fence and at a very reasonable price.

Choosing a local company over a "national brand store" might seem risky, but ask the "big guy" for an 8 year guarantee. You can't even buy one! Hill's guarantees their above ground products for 8 years, because they use the best available #1 Grade White Cedar for the above ground stock. Their posts are made of first quality pressure-treated Southern Yellow Pine. They use wooden dowels and aluminum screw nails to hold everything together. Combine that top quality with professional, full time craftsmen, supervised by the owner of the company and you'll have a fence with a very long, and healthy life!

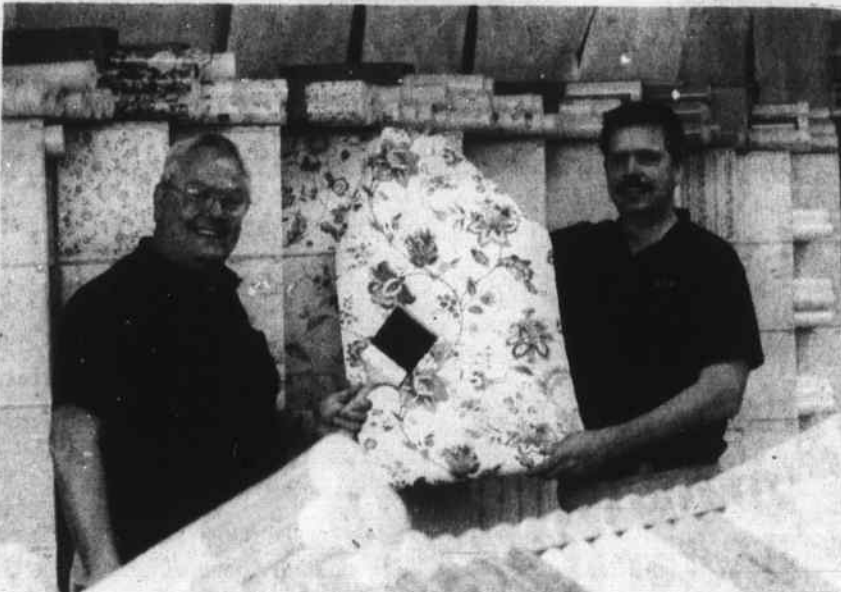

If you'd prefer to install the fence yourself they will help you choose the right materials and recommend the best way to install it. Customers save money and the job still meets Hill's high quality standards.

Another fine product they carry is a complete of vinyl, aluminum and chain link fencing.

If you are considering a new fence or small building, call for a free estimate and ask for design ideas. There is no charge for this initial service and you'll find the offer the best value in the area!

Would you like to advertise your business on this page? Call 658-2346.

Middlesex Paint & Wallpaper • 382 Middlesex Ave., No. Wilmington • (508) 988-0788

Joe and Dave with the tools of the trade

Shopping locally can really save you more than just time. It will save you money! Many people don't realize that going out to a big "discount" store costs more in the long run. Joe Manzo and Dave Sugrue will be glad to show you how to do the job right the first time and save money, too! Come in to Middlesex Paint and Wallpaper before you start redecorating. You'll be very glad you did.

Both Dave and Joe have years of experience in painting and wallpapering. They know all the old tricks and most of the new ones. Of course there are always new tools and techniques coming out. Joe and Dave read up on them all. Knowing which tools to buy, which to borrow and what not to attempt at home can save you a lot of aggravation. Buying the right paint for the job will save you from doing an unnecessary second coat and make the first coat easier, too. You can pay less at a department store, but in the paint business, more than anywhere else, you get what you pay for. Gallon for gallon you're ahead when you start at Middlesex Paint & Wallpaper.

A new product they would like you to know about is Kyanize Melamine paint. It is specially formulated for kitchen & bathroom cabinets, counter tops, Formica®, shelving and furniture. It can SAVE you THOUSANDS. Don't reface or replace those kitchen cabinets before you talk to Dave or Joe. This new paint covers so thoroughly that you'll swear that you have new cabinets! For less than $100, you can buy all the paint and tools necessary to "reface" those cabinets like a professional. Or you can have that national chain do it and spend $4000 - $5000!

In the end when it's a quality job you're looking for, do it yourself, with a little help from your friends at Middlesex Paint & Wallpaper. You'll be proud of your work.

Wilmington news briefs

Culvert

Town officials in Wilmington are currently meeting with officials of the MBTA to try to resolve a long-standing problem with a culvert near Westdale Avenue.

The culvert, say neighbors and town officials, is too small to handle water runoff from the development of the Treetops Nursing Home on nearby West Street. Town Manager Michael Cairra said Monday engineers from the railroad plan to meet with engineers from the nursing home project and Town Engineer Harold Gillam to discuss possible solutions to the flooding problem in the neighborhood.

"We'll meet until we can get some kind of resolution to that problem," Cairra assured the local board of selectmen.

Norfolk Wilmington platform Emergency vehicles may soon be able to go around downed railroad gates in North Wilmington once a temporary platform to unload passengers is built along the tracks off Middlesex Avenue. Town officials have been negotiating with officials from the MBTA to come up with a solution to what they consider a dangerous situation. Currently, when gates are down, emergency vehicles have to stop until passengers unload because the train blocks the road. Once a temporary platform is in place, trains will pull past Middlesex Avenue allowing only emergency vehicles to pull around the gates.

At Monday's selectmen's meeting, Town Manager Michael Cairra said the town is getting some "positive results" after talking with MBTA representatives. Cost estimates of the temporary platform, which will not be handicapped accessible, will be completed by next week, he said. The temporary platform will reportedly be replaced by a permanent one when a second set of tracks are laid sometime in the distant future. MBTA spokesman Jim Ball told this paper the platform should be in place by early fall.

CDAG Grant

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen voted unanimously this week to extend a half million dollar CDAG Grant from June 30 to December 31, 1992. The grant is paying for the replacement of water pipes on Shawshen Avenue and Hopkins Street and for bringing a water line to the Shawshen Commons affordable housing development off Hopkins Street. No reason was given for the extension of time.

Abundant Life honors grads

Students and staff, families and friends, celebrated with eighth grade students as they recently graduated from the Abundant Life Christian School in Wilmington. Eight students graduated that evening: Stephen Day, III, Melissa Herland, Julie Kanach, Rebecca Molgard, Amy Nason, William Nuttall, Sarah Schmitz and Andrew Turner.

Stephen Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Day of Wilmington, has passed the headmaster's exam at Lexington Christian Academy and will be attending there in the fall. Stephen said he appreciated the "freedom of prayer" during the eight years he attended Abundant Life.

Melissa Herland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Herland (formerly of Wilmington), will be attending public high school in New Hampshire as her family relocates there.

Julie Kanach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kanach of Wilmington, is participating in a Teen Missions project which will take her to Belgium, Switzerland, France and the Netherlands. She will attend Lexington Christian Academy in the fall.

Rebecca Molgard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Molgard of Wilmington, will be working at a Christian camp in New Hampshire this summer along with participating in band camp. She will participate in the National Christian Youth Athletic Girls' Softball Tournament in Baltimore, MD as pitcher for her team. She will attend Wilmington High school this fall.

Amy Nason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Nason of Watertown, will participate in a mission trip this summer to Granada, along with 35 other members of the Youth With a Mission team. When she returns she'll be working with Vacation Bible School and will be on staff for Christian Handicapped Camp. She is undecided as to where she will attend high school this fall.

William Nuttall, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nuttall of Wilmington, will visit Cape Cod this summer and will be working in the landscaping business. Having attended Abundant Life for nine years, he will continue on to Lexington Christian Academy in the fall.

Sarah Schmitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Schmitz of Tewksbury, will visit Virginia as she participates in "King's Kids," a Christian outreach program. She will participate in the National Christian Youth Athletic Girls' Softball Tournament in Baltimore, MD as pitcher and first baseman. Together with her family, she will summer in Tanglewood as she decides where she will attend high school in the fall.

Andrew Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Turner of Tewksbury, will relax with friends this summer as he prepares to attend Shawsheen Tech in the fall. He is interested in a career in health technology.

Abundant Life grads

Family and friends were on hand recently to honor eight students at the Abundant Life School as they graduated from the eighth grade. The smiling grads are L-r: Andrew Turner, Stephen Day, Sarah Schmitz, William Nuttall, Melissa Herland, Julie Kanach, Amy Nason, Rebecca Molgard.

Loans available for lead paint removal

To help combat the dangerous lead paint epidemic in Massachusetts, Rep. James R. Miceli has announced that the Mass. Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) in conjunction with the Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD) has introduced the "Get the Lead Out" loan program. The program makes available $11 million in loans to benefit approximately 1,000 homes. Loans will be offered up to $15,000 at reduced interest rates of 8.5 percent, 5 percent and 0 percent. For more information about qualification and loan guidelines, a homeowner can call MHFA at (617) 451-2766.

In addition to MHFA's newly offered loan program, the House Committee on Health Care has approved legislation aimed at establishing better enforcement and reporting procedures. It also generates new options and investigates new technology to bring households into lead law compliance. Better enforcement, reporting, and law compliance are the ultimate goals of the Legislature's action. Representative Miceli is pleased that he and his colleagues have advanced this legislation which will benefit all residents of the Commonwealth.

UMass Lowell grads honored

Kendrick R. Bennett of Navillus Road, Tewksbury and Jeanne Muise of Maple Street, were among the more than 100 UMass, Lowell students who received awards or other special recognition during recent annual commencement exercises.

Kendrick received the Edward VanDusen Award for the highest academic achievement during the May 31 commencement.

Jeanne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Muise was presented the University Athletic Scholarship Award. She also earned a B.S. in criminal justice and is a graduate of Tewksbury Memorial High School.

backyard gardening

by Hugh Wiberg
Keeping up with the mail and phone calls:

R.P. of North Tewksbury writes as follows: "We are new home owners in Tewksbury, transplanted from Malden. We planted our very first vegetable garden this spring and, thanks to a kindly elderly neighbor and your weekly column, we are doing fairly well so far. We are trying hard to go "organic" whenever possible. Help us to identify a new bug (for us) and tell us if it will do any serious damage in the garden. As best as I can describe it, the color is black, it is about an inch long, it is skinny and has what appears to be pincers at the back."

Welcome to the neighborhood, and you will note there are considerably more insects in Tewksbury than in Malden. The insect you have described is the European earwig, another accidental import going back to shortly after the turn of the century. Earwigs are not considered a serious problem in our gardens and their appearance in July and August is fairly common in most suburbs. Their pincers are used to grasp the aphids and other small insects they eat, and in this sense they are beneficial. Unfortunately, they also eat decaying vegetable matter and occasionally some fruits. Keeping your garden area free rubbish and rotting vegetation helps to keep their populations under control. If you notice a severe infestation, which is rare, a light dusting with rotenone (an organic pesticide) will help.

Quoting from a letter signed by R.V. of Wilmington: "I have two Japanese plum trees that are afflicted with what I am told is "black knot." This appears as hard, dark colored growths on the small twigs and branches and seems to be spreading rapidly. Can you confirm this affliction? Is it a disease, or something caused by an insect? Is there a cure for it and will it eventually spread to my nearby peach, cherry and apple trees?"

Your problem has been correctly identified as "black knot." I can empathize with you since, as mentioned in this column last year, I have struggled with black knot on my several Stark plum trees for years. I have advised you by letter that the news is not good. There is no known control or cure for this particular disease. In my several communications with state agricultural schools and agencies, the response is always the same; fungicides will not counteract or even slow down this internal disease. Although the outward evidence of the presence of black knot are the galls which girdle and strangle the branches, the disease is inside the outer bark, and spreads through the branch and twig network like a cancer. Until a cure is found, our only option is to cut out the galls as they form and burn them, to prevent further spore development. This is a delaying tactic at best, and eventually the infected tree should be cut down and burned. Wait a year, then replace and hope for the best. The good news is that your other fruit trees are impervious to black knot, which, hopefully, is some consolation.

And from Wilmington, T.P. reports a heavy infestation of "some kind of bug" on her yellow wax bean plants. From the description, my guess is that you have Mexican bean beetles, which most growers of beans eventually encounter. If the plants are left to their own devices, the entire crop can be lost. In a small garden, with a dozen or two plants, you should be able to stay ahead of them by hand picking them into a can of detergent or gasoline. In larger plantings, dusting the leaves with rotenone (including the undersides where the eggs and larvae congregate) usually works well.

Two corn growers have written to ask about anticipated raccoon damage to their maturing ears. We'll discuss corn and raccoons next week.

Course on infant CPR

The national statistics on infant and childhood injuries are staggering. According to USA Today, choking and suffocating are the leading accidental killers of babies under the age of one. Appropriate Pediatric and Infant CPR techniques differ from those used on adults - knowing how to correctly use CPR can mean the difference between life and death.

Winchester Hospital will offer a Pediatric and Infant CPR non-certification course from 6 to 10 p.m. August 11 at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center in Wilmington (formerly the Regional Health Center).

For price information and to register call Winchester Hospital's Education Department at (617) 756-2220.

Fashion show to benefit hungry

Two local businesses are working together to help feed the hungry of the area. Emphasis Hair Designs of Tewksbury and Fashion Bug of Wilmington are planning a fashion show. All proceeds will be donated to the Salvation Army to help feed the hungry children of the area. The event will be held August 10 at 7 p.m. at Emphasis, at 1475 Main St., Tewksbury.

Doreen Mastropietro, manager of Emphasis Hair Designs who has been organizing this special event said "After reading an article in the Lowell Sun about the incredible number of children going hungry in the area, we wanted to help and found others wanted to help too. With everyone's combined efforts it's going to be a fashion extravaganza!"

Fashion Bug will provide the latest fall fashion wear and Emphasis will provide the latest looks in hair style, color and makeup. Some of the models will be from LaFemme School of Modeling.

The two businesses are also offering incentives to their customers at great savings when they buy a ticket. According to Ellen Claveau, asst. manager at Fashion Bug, when anyone buys a ticket they will receive a small gift packet containing a $5 coupon off any purchase and another coupon for free hosiery. Elaine Vincent owner and stylist of Emphasis Hair Design is offering a 20 percent discount on services at the popular salon.

Tickets are $5 in advance at either location or $6 at the door. Refreshments will be served. A basket will be available for non-perishable food items - so check your shelves!

Forms available for fall day care

The Wilmington School System is again offering an extended day program. The program is designed to meet the needs and schedule of working parents of children in grades K-5. It will run in conjunction with the regular school calendar of 180 days.

The daily schedule provides for breakfast, informal activities, and supervised leisure time from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m. A more structured program and snack are offered from 3 to 6 each afternoon.

Staffing of the program is by qualified personnel. In addition to certified teachers, program aides and high school students are employed to assist the daily operations. The ratio of child to adult for the program is 10:1.

Tuition rates are included on the application form. Payments have been broken down in equal payments for the 10 months of the school year (September through June). A $10.00 non refundable registration fee is required for each child in addition to the tuition.

Application forms are available to each of the three elementary schools, as well as the town hall and the superintendent's office. For more information call Bunny Kelley, program coordinator at 694-6010 at the Wildwood School.

August 5 hearing on supt. search

On Wednesday evening, August 5, the Wilmington School Committee will hold a public hearing to establish criteria to be used for selecting a new superintendent of schools. Questionnaires will be distributed to be completed by those present. Opportunity will be available for comments.

The committee will then establish the criteria for the selection committee and the time line to be followed during the search. The hearing will take place in the town hall auditorium at 7:30 p.m. As this decision directly affects the future direction of education in Wilmington, the school committee desires community input. The public is encouraged to attend.

Support group for grieving parents

Losing a child at any age is a traumatic and heart-wrenching experience. For those parents who have lost a child through miscarriage, stillbirth or within a few weeks of birth, there is Helping Other Parents Endure (HOPE).

HOPE, offered to the community by Winchester Hospital, is a peer support group to help parents recover from their loss. HOPE will meet Wednesday, August 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center (the former Regional Health Center in Wilmington), and continues to meet the second Wednesday of every month.

For more information, call Winchester Hospital's Social Service Department at (617) 756-2633.

Secretarial program

Information sessions regarding the day time tuition free Secretarial Certificate Program offered by Middlesex Community College (MCC) will be held Thursdays, July 23 and 30 at both the Bedford and Lowell campuses.

The program is designed to serve women who are economically disadvantaged, including single parents, displaced homemakers, widowed, divorced or those living with a disabled spouse, pregnant or parenting teens or any homemaker with no job skills or experience.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

WHY WORRY?

QUESTION: Why should I worry about insuring against catastrophes? I never worry about the future and don't intend to.

ANSWER: I congratulate you on your good fortune. However, although most people don't worry about doom and gloom in the future, when it does happen, it normally strikes suddenly.

It takes so little time and money to protect yourself against the financial and psychological devastation that can occur from a sudden personal or material loss. Although you may not be able to prevent a calamity from happening, insurance can help ease any financial or personal anguish that will certainly follow.

around AIM

Aim, a social/support group made up of people of all ages and abilities, meets each Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at K of C Hall in Wilmington. The organization runs mainly on love, caring and sharing, and an occasional fun fundraiser.

We were happy to have Charlie Gilbert back with us on June 30 as caller at our monthly round of bingo games. We celebrated June birthdays with a gorgeous and delectable cake made and donated by volunteer, Irene Brennan.

On July 7, a country store auction was held. This fun and popular event was made possible by the generous donation of great items by members.

Send in the Marines! Luncheon on July 14 was provided by the U.S. Marine Corps.

Newsy Notes: Congratulations to the graduates and to their proud families. Jack Lynch was on stage to personally present his son his Wilmington High School diploma. The younger Lynch will be attending Bentley College in Waltham. Carol Oakleaf's daughter, Tammi, also a WHS graduate, plans to study early childhood education at Endicott College and Irene Antonucci's son Michael has been accepted at the University of Iowa.

Welcome back to Eileen Hanson, whose husband, Joe is now attending meetings with her. We're also delighted to welcome newcomers Tom Boudreau of Arlington and Chris Colangelo of Belmont. Joe Re is now scooting about with his spiffy new Rascal (motorized scooter).

Whist Monday

The last whist of July will be held in the function room of the Buzzell Senior Citizen Center, 15 School St., Monday, July 27. It will start at 1 p.m. Don't forget to take a chance on winning $5.00 when you enter the Center. It would be greatly appreciated if all participating in the many programs at the center would make sure to sign the program before joining the seniors in the classes. The books are visible on the tables in every room, as well as in the kitchen, game room, exercise room and on the counter as you enter the Center.

This procedure last year made completing the 1992 annual report for the Department of Elder Affairs and the Town of Wilmington, as to the duplicated and unduplicated number of seniors participating in programs at the center so much easier. A thank you to all for their cooperation.

It is important

For those who think it is not important to sign: That is not so, your name is as important as any of ours. Even if it is only to come in and say hello. You are telling the town state and federal governments that you want to be counted with the fastest growing segment of our population, a very important group of citizens. By the simple act of signing your name in the books as you participate in the programs will prove to these branches of the government that you are active and grateful to them for making you an important person. If everyone takes that second to sign their name, the figures will be even higher next year.

Cholesterol screenings

The nurse will be giving cholesterol screenings Tuesday, July 28 at the center. If you have not had a test for some time, it would be wise to do so Tuesday. To have this test in a hospital would be very expensive, and would take a good deal of time going to and from the hospital and waiting a long time before you are called.

Medical information file

The Mass. Medical Society has put together a medical information file they feel is important to the elderly. It is suggested by the Society that every time you go to your doctor it should be given to him. Let him/her write in the space stating medication given to you i.e. all your medications he has given you, the dosages and his name as prescriber, and the date. In this way you and your doctor will know if one medication will or will not conflict with another given by him/her or another doctor. Elder Abuse Law

In 1983 the state passed an Elder Abuse Law. It was placed under the regulations of the Executive Office of Elder Affairs. Under this law residents 60 years and older are protected by law from abuse and neglect. Since 1983 elder abuse incidents, reported have been increasing at a rapid rate. Every year we are finding more and more forms of abuse being inflicted on older persons. Added to the forms of mental and physical abuse that are noticeable on a senior, we are seeing financial exploitation. The Boston Globe a few months back carried front page stories of this type of abuse by lawyers, financial advisors along with family members. These stories were heartbreaking when told to reporters by men and women in their late 70s and 80s and some in the 90s, how they were swindled out of every penny they owned including their homes and left penniless.

The other type of abuse added to the Elder Abuse Law is the "Elder at Risk." This abuse is by the elder person him/herself through a variety of factors such as alcohol, drugs, mental health, dementia or physical illness will not accept help. Any senior who is being abused in any of these ways or knows of another senior being abused should call Mieke Monen, Protective Service Director, Minuteman Home Care 1-617-272-7177. If you cannot reach this number call me at 658-2258 or 657-7595.

Food bank donation

Wilmington Realtors recently teamed up to make a $1200 donation to The Commissary, Wilmington's food bank. The food bank, started in January, continues to feed about 80 families. From left, David Provencher of Century 21 Starwood Associates, food bank organizers Jim Hachey and Bob DiPalma, Maureen Forestiere of Century 21 Starwood, Jane Forest of Realty World- Forest Conant, Sharon Kelley of Kelley & Ko, and Donna Wayman of Re-Max Casalot. Missing are Bill and Betty Wolfe of Wolfe Realty. Provencher organized the Realtors' donation. Donations for the food bank may be dropped off at the Swain School on Saturdays, or at collection boxes at Lucci's, the Town Hall, D&D Lock, Wilmington Redemption Center, or the Shawmut Bank.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending July 21, Wilmington police officers responded to 48 alarms, made nine arrests and one protective custody detention, investigated two assaults and assisted other departments on four occasions.

Fifteen incidents of disorderly conduct were reported, four domestic problems were quieted, nine larcenies were checked out, one person was reported missing, a motor vehicle was reported stolen and 12 were recovered, medical assistance was rendered on six occasions.

Five non criminal complaints were logged, nine public services were performed, two restraining orders were issued, two threat complaints were taken, 12 traffic accidents were investigated and six traffic services were completed.

Two trail bike complaints were taken and 17 incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Wednesday afternoon Dennis Shea, 54 of Somerville was arrested at Somerville Court after police obtained an arrest warrant charging him with stalking. He was bailed for his arraignment at Woburn Court Thursday morning.

A Winchester youth was arrested and three local juveniles are to be summoned to court after Officer Paul Jepson responded to a mailbox vandalism incident in North Wilmington early Thursday morning. Richard Allston of Winchester was charged with receiving stolen property, operating a motor vehicle without a license and malicious damage to private property. Officer Jepson discovered seven damaged mailboxes, so far, in the Pinewood Road, Cedarcrest Road, Shady Lane Drive and Whitefield Terrace neighborhood.

Other residents of the area who discover damage to mailboxes from Wednesday night are urged to contact Officer Jepson at the police station.

At 1 a.m. Friday, Officers Martignetti and Sugrue arrested

David McInnis, 26 of Pratt Street, Tewksbury after a traffic stop on Main Street near Glen Road. McInnis was charged with operating under the influence of liquor. He was bailed on personal recognizance for his appearance in Woburn Court.

Friday afternoon Officer Jon Shepard arrested Jeffrey Jordan, 20 of Billerica, after stopping him on Burlington Avenue. Jordan was charged with motor vehicle offenses and taken to Woburn Court for arraignment.

At 9 p.m. Friday, Officers Alan Reece and Jim Hanlon arrested Charles Coulter, 33 of Woburn, in the square. Coulter was charged with operating under the influence of liquor and bailed for Monday at Woburn Court.

Early Saturday afternoon Officer Jim Hanlon, after a short chase into North Reading, arrested Robert Anderton, 34 of 61 Wildwood Street. He was charged with numerous motor vehicle violations including operating after revocation of drivers license, failure to stop for a police officer, speeding, unregistered motor vehicle and a Wilmington default warrant.

He was held for the weekend after bail was set at $330.

A local man was arrested Saturday night after officers responded to a disturbance call on Arlene Avenue. George MacDonald, 24 of Ella Avenue was charged with disorderly conduct. He was bailed for a Monday court appearance.

Patrolman Bob Richter arrested a Tewksbury man Sunday morning while patrolling Salem Street around 3:30 a.m. Robert Depietro, 25 of Valley Road was charged with operating under the influence of liquor. He was bailed for court Monday.

Monday evening Officer David Axelrod arrested Paul DeFilippo, 32 of Middlesex Avenue on the basis of a state police warrant. He was turned over to an Andover trooper pending his appearance in Charlestown Court.

All Stars start fast

The Wilmington 13-year-old All-Star team opened up the 13-year-old Little League Tournament against Assabet Valley at Maynard High School July 14 with good results.

Wilmington took Assabet Valley 4-1 in one and a half innings. Due to rain the game was stopped short, but it was official and a win for Wilmington.

Ryan Haubner was the starting pitcher for Wilmington. He pitched five innings, allowing one run, one hit and striking out one batter. Ryan got plenty of help in the field. Billy Harrison was excellent, as was Jason Giangregorio, who made several outstanding plays at shortstop.

Wilmington struck first in the first inning when Phil Bates singled and later scored on a wild pitch.

In the bottom of the third Wilmington struck for three runs. Eric Clancy led off with a single and stole second; then Billy Harrison laid down an excellent bunt down the first base line. Clancy went to third and kept going when Harrison collided with the first baseman.

Bates hit a single and E. McKenna belted a double with runners on second and third. Haubner helped out his own cause with a two-run single.

Other players who contributed were Richie Gillis, who threw out a runner and didn't allow a passed ball. Mike Nadeau and Mark Caples also contributed.

Baseball program underway

The Wilmington travelling team baseball program is underway, with the 11-year-olds (B-Team) having completed round one of the Bay State Tournament of Champions with a three and three record.

The wins came against Marblehead, Burlington I and Burlington II. This qualified them as the second seed in the Atlantic Division and pitted the locals against Stoneham last Saturday in the "trophy" weekend.

Tigers score playoff victory

Tigers 3 Red Sox 2

In the opening round of the playoffs, the Tigers defeated the Red Sox, 3-2.

Doug Bonnarigo and Brian McCarthy pitched well for the Tigers. Richard Marquis pitched a great game for the Red Sox.

The Tigers scored all their runs in the fourth inning, as John Aprile and Paul Tentindo singled followed by Doug Bonnarigo and Greg Moran with doubles.

Tigers 3 Yankees 2

In the second game of the playoffs, the Tigers defeated the Yankees, 3-2. Once again the Tigers got good pitching from Doug Bonnarigo and Brian McCarthy.

Brian Herman pitched a good game for the Yankees. The offense for the Tigers was led by Brian McCarthy who hit his eighth homerun of the season and doubled. Mike Garbati made a fine defensive play in the bottom of the sixth by throwing out a runner at third.

The Tigers have now reached the finals in a best two out of three vs. the Twins.

Tigers 8 Twins 1

In the first game the Tiger bats came alive as they pounded out 16 hits.

Getting hits for the Tigers were Ken Branley, Joel McKenna, Chris Burns, Paul Tentindo and Mike Berian. Doug Bonnarigo and Brian McCarthy pitched a strong game for the Tigers who took it, 8-1.

Game two was a little different for the Twins. After dropping the first game, the Twins' bats came alive in the second game.

The Twins hitting was led by Vinnie Dimauro, who homered. Damian DiCenso, Brian Carroll and Josh Saulnier also had hits.

Offensively for the Tigers, Doug Bonnarigo hit a homerun and a double. Joel McKenna, John Aprile, and Danny Abbott all had big hits. However, that wasn't enough as the Twins won game two, 13-9.

Winner take all

The Twins' victory in game two made a winner take all situation of game three.

Both teams had their best pitchers ready. Doug Bonnarigo and Brian McCarthy for the Tigers, and Damian DiCenso for the Twins.

The Tigers jumped out to an early lead by scoring two runs in the bottom of the first. Doug Bonnarigo and John Aprile had the run scoring singles.

The Twins came right back with two runs in the top of the second. Brian Carroll had the big hit with a double. The Tigers stretched their lead by scoring four runs in the bottom of the third inning.

Danny Abbott, Mike Berian, Brian McCarthy and Paul Tentindo all had big hits.

Once again the Twins came back, scoring three runs in the top of the fourth. Damian DiCenso, Sean Haubner and Brian Carroll had bit hits.

Holding a 6-5 lead in the bottom of the fifth, the Tigers got some insurance as Paul Tentindo, in his final major league at bat, hit a two-run homer to seal the victory for the Tigers.

Wilmington boys win Commissioners' Cup

The Wilmington boys' under 14 traveling B soccer team recently captured both the spring 1992 Commissioners Cup Championship BU-14 trophy and the 1992 M.Y.S.L. Division BU-14B championship trophy with a 2-1 overtime win at Woburn Joyce Field over a tough Melrose team.

This game concluded an excellent spring season in which the team finished first overall with an 11 wins, no loss record and outscored their opponents with a 55 goals scored to 11 against.

In the Melrose game Wilmington took a 1-0 lead in the first regular half thanks to a sniper shot from the foot of Mark Wallace off a great centering pass from right center forward Scott Fullerton, who received a bullseye pass from halfback Darren Bishop to start the scoring drive.

In the second half both teams battled the intense heat and Melrose rallied to tie the game with three minutes left in regulation to make it 1-1.

The game went into overtime, which consisted of two 10 minute halves. Wilmington scored first in the first 10 minute overtime resulting from a great pass from left outside forward Keith McLaren to right inside forward Pat Mallon, who tallied a "heat shot" past the stunned Melrose goalie.

Wilmington's defense stiffened, thanks in part to Joe Bamberg's stalwart goaltending and tough defense by Chris DiJulia, Rory Murphy and Jay Isberg.

An all-around great game and season were played by the entire Wilmington team which consisted of Joe Bamberg, David Bennett, Jason Manini, Mike Cairra, Mark "Spike" Wallace, Billy Covino, Scott Fullerton, Richie Barden, Chris "D" DiJulia, Gregg Loguidice, Eric Mantey, Keith "Boomer" McLaren, Rory Murphy, Darren Bishop, Jay Isberg, Patrick Mallon and Kasta Radosavljevic.

The three coaches Dan Bamberg, Paul Fullerton and John Manini would like to thank all the loyal Wilmington fans who supported and cheered this team on.

Stelio's rolls over Colonial Park Liquors

Stelio's 13- Colonial Park Liquors 8
It finally happened, Colonial Park Liquors' winning streak ended as Stelio's romped, 13-8. Stelio's thought they were in trouble facing an undefeated team with only nine fielders, but pitcher Tommy Woods didn't think so.

Unfortunately, Woods' second pitch of the game was a blast into the rightfield trees by Bobby Butters. In the third, Steve Brander also connected with a solo homerun of his own.

With Colonial taking a comfortable 6-3 lead into the fourth, Stelio's decided to get a rally going. John Engdahl, Bill Dineen, Dan Bamberg who was 4-4 with two doubles, triple, four RBI's; Eddie Collins and Woods all drove in runs to take the lead, 9-6.

Colonial scored one in the sixth until Stelio's answered back with four of their own. Bamberg's triple drove in one and Wally Welding's three run double took it for Stelio's.

Rocco's 7- Charlie's Auto Body 3
Bernie Wagstaff and Herbie Mason were matched up in a pitching duel in this game, with Mason's club ahead 2-0 in the fifth. They decided that it was not enough, as Joe Franchesi drove in two runs to make it 4-0.

In the sixth, Chuck Duggan drove in a run and Billy Cole drove in a pair to take a 7-0 lead. Jimmy Hatchey did double in two runs, but that unfortunately was not enough for Charlie's.

Rocco's 15- Lions Club 10
Rocco's brought their power bats with them in this game, as Richie Rappoli (a solo homerun), Mike Herra (a two run shot) and Chuck

Duggan (a grand slam) all helped Rocco's take another game.

Rappoli also helped with two doubles along with the homerun.

Kevin Kleynan (three hits) and four RBI's helped the Lions, but unfortunately it was not enough.

Youth soccer girls champs

For the second year in a row, the Wilmington Youth Soccer Girls Under 14 A team has won the Middlesex Youth Soccer League's Division 2A Championship.

With an impressive record of nine wins and one loss for the 1992 season, The Wilmington GU14A Team successfully defended the Division 2A title which they won back in the spring of 1991 with a record of 10 wins and no losses.

The Wilmington Girls Under 14 A team has a hard working and very dedicated group of talented players who demonstrated sportsmanship and fair play and set the standard for all who will follow in their steps. Their technical and tactical abilities coupled with their sense of team play made them an incredible force on the soccer field.

The Wilmington girls under 14 team could not have enjoyed this rate of success without a solid and steadfast defense made up of Amanda Zaya, Kelly Silva, Jackie Hayden, Jill Lojek and Joanie DeMarco.

Kim Tarr kept the Wilmington net safe from attack and coordinated the defensive efforts of the team. Kim recorded five shutouts to her credit and allowed only six goals during the regular season. Kim did an outstanding job in goal and made the difference in more ways than can be counted.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Ouellette would like to thank all who supported the GU14 team. Parental support is a key factor to any successful team and this team had an abundance of that support. A special thanks to Mr. DeMarco for being there as a coach when needed.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. DeMarco will be coaching the girls JV team this year and look forward to seeing many of these girls again in the fall.

Pop Warner sign-up

The 1992 Wilmington Pop Warner season will be starting in August. Those not signed up for a football team yet are urged to call Bob Gillis at 657-5913 or Ken Redmond at 988-0864.

If your child has already registered and has not been contacted by Pop Warner about physicals, please call Ken.

Easter Seal softball

Sixty-three local teams will play softball in the Easter Seal Softball games at Livingston Street Fields in Tewksbury. They join thousands of softball players playing throughout Mass. in the 15th annual Games sponsored by Marshalls and WLVI TV56.

Wilmington teams already on the Easter Seal roster include ADS, and Ceric Fabrication on Saturday, August 8 and E.M. Parker and NAPA on Sunday, August 9.

Proceeds from the Easter Seal Softball Games support swim programs, summer camp, equipment loan, stroke support groups, physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, technology for independence and home health care for disabled children and adults.

There's still time to sign-up according to Easter Seal representative Christine Lucey. For information, call the Lawrence Easter Seal office, (508) 683-1259.

Rec playground busy

At the Wilmington Recreation Department's summer playground there's plenty to do. Participants can play basketball, ping-pong, jump rope, kickball, quiet games, active games. The children have even had a chance to show off their artistic talents by painting some beautiful t-shirts and by drawing magic masks.

Cooling off during the week was easy when Sundae Day came along - cold ice cream always does the trick. The candy hunt which was made possible by Demoulas, made for another sweet summer day.

Even with all of these playground activities, the children love to explore new places. Field trips to Funland, the Billerica Flick and Chuck E Cheese were held.

Having all these activities requires a lot of organization. Some extremely helpful volunteers were on hand to keep things running smoothly.

The week of July 10, Kerri Casella and Billy Lemos were indispensable. We would also like to thank two of the playgrounders, Meghan Sullivan and Patrick Cushing. They did a great job keeping the playground clean and helping out the other children.

During the upcoming week, a walk to Darwyn's Ice Cream Parlor for a cold treat will be enjoyed. Next, it's off to Canobie Lake Park for a day of amusements and on Friday, a rotten sneaker contest.

Tewksbury Thursday night track results

Last Thursday night the fifth summer track meet drew a large crowd. As usual, there were many great races, highlighted by some thrilling close relays at the end. Many people contributed to making the event a success, including Cathy Fish, Barbara Brady, Pat Takach, Heather and Kim Farrand, Debbie and Eric Takach, Karen Lafave, Kyle Moore, Jessica Spinazola and Jess Mader.

This Thursday, July 23, the last summer meet of the year will take place at the TMHS track. The meet will begin at 6 p.m. with the 50 yard run for ages five and under. There is no entry fee and no preregistration.

Womens' rugby survives obstacles

Since the fall of 1989, the Merrimack Valley Women's Rugby Club (MVWRC) has tackled numerous obstacles and survived countless injuries to achieve their goals and objectives.

Although the team has a handful of players eager to challenge the strength of more experienced ruggers, the MVWRC is lacking in numbers. The young, upstarting club aspires to place in the top four in New England (presently fifth).

The MVWRC placed fourth in the New England Rugby Football Union (NERFU) tournament in May 1992, and placed first in the Hartford Women's tourney in June 1991. In July of the same year, the ruggers came in third in the Boston Women's Rugby Tournament, the largest women's sevens competition in the country.

The Lowell based team competes against the 1992 national champs, the Beantown Women's Rugby Club. Other teams they play are Hartford, Portland, Maine, Albany and college teams (Radcliffe, Boston College and UNH).

Since the club includes players with some or no experience, each year they grow through improvement. According to team President, Renee Matte, rugby is mentally and physically challenging. "It's a game of endurance. Along with comradery and team spirit, rugby tests one's power and perseverance."

The MVWRC meets for practice Wednesday and Friday evenings, and competes on Saturdays. The season runs August through October, and starts up again in March.

Anyone interested in challenging their athletic skills on the rugby field, please contact Renee Matte at (508) 452-3080, or Beth Barnhill at (617) 861-0903.

Superb season

Wilmington's Lisa Crowley has just completed another superb gymnastics season.

Wilmington gymnast

Lisa Crowley completes super season

Lisa Crowley, a 13-year-old eighth grader at the North Intermediate School in Wilmington, has finished her competitive season with her last competition at the USAIGC Nationals held in Las Vegas this past June.

This past season Lisa was a Level 9 in the USGF program. The United States Gymnastics Federation is the governing board of gymnastics in the United States, with the levels ranging from one through 10 to Elite. The Elite gymnasts make up our Olympic team.

Advancing through local meets to the state level championships where Lisa earned four gold medals, she qualified to Level 9 Regionals for the first time.

In New York at the Regionals she earned a medal on one of her strongest events, vaulting. At one of America's largest invitational, the Buckeye Classic, in Ohio, Lisa took first place on vault in the Level 9 and 10 Junior Division, as well as an award on floor and balance beam.

After a successful season at Level 9, Lisa has qualified to move into the Level 10 program consisting of compulsory and optional exercises.

She will be among a handful of the best gymnasts of this age from Massachusetts. Lisa trains at Northeast Gymnastics Center in Wilmington 20 to 25 hours weekly where she is preparing for and looking forward to the challenge of the Level 10 program. When she succeeds at this level, there is only the next step, Elite.

Golf tourney

The St. John's ninth annual charity golf tournament will be held Monday, August 31 at the Indian Ridge Country Club in Andover.

The tournament will honor Elkin McCallum, chairman of St. John's Board of Trustees, and president of Joan Fabrics Co. of Lowell.

Chairman of this year's tournament is Frank DeSanto. Honorary co-chairmen are Dave Lane and Mike Zammitti. Proceeds from the tournament, which will feature morning and afternoon flights, will go to St. John's Men's Guild pledge of $300,000 to St. John's $3.5 million capital campaign.

The entry fee for the tournament is $150.00 per person, which includes golf cart, greens' fee, continental breakfast, lunch, dinner and numerous golf prizes.

Businesses and individuals interested in playing in this year's tournament are urged to call St. John's Foundation at 452-2261. Reservations are being accepted for the morning flight with a tee off time set for 8 a.m.

YMCA summer camp

Lowell YMCA Summer Day Camp, Camp Weetamoo on Long-Sought-For Pond in Westford, is still accepting registrations for Session 2, July 20 to 31, and Session 3, August 3 to 14. Campers are girls and boys, ages 5 to 13. Activities include swimming instruction, boating, nature and pioneering, arts and crafts, sports, games, dramatics and singing, and special events. Camp is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., with round-trip bus transportation provided from scheduled stops in Lowell, Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Dracut, Tyngsboro, and Westford. Camp fees are $10 for a one-time-only registration fee, and $130 per two week session. Financial aid is available.

For information and camp program, call the camp registrar at 454-5405, or stop by the YMCA at 206 Rogers Street.

Stelio's rolls over Colonial Park Liquors

Stelio's 13- Colonial Park Liquors 8
It finally happened, Colonial Park Liquors' winning streak ended as Stelio's romped, 13-8. Stelio's thought they were in trouble facing an undefeated team with only nine fielders, but pitcher Tommy Woods didn't think so.

Unfortunately, Woods' second pitch of the game was a blast into the rightfield trees by Bobby Butters. In the third, Steve Brander also connected with a solo homerun of his own.

With Colonial taking a comfortable 6-3 lead into the fourth, Stelio's decided to get a rally going. John Engdahl, Bill Dineen, Dan Bamberg (who was 4-4 with two doubles, triple, four RBI's); Eddie Collins and Woods all drove in runs to take the lead, 9-6.

Colonial scored one in the sixth until Stelio's answered back with four of their own. Bamberg's triple drove in one and Wally Welding's three run double took it for Stelio's.

Rocco's 7- Charlie's Auto Body 3
Bernie Wagstaff and Herbie Mason were matched up in a pitching duel

in this game, with Mason's club ahead 2-0 in the fifth. They decided that it was not enough, as Joe Franchesi drove in two runs to make it 4-0.

In the sixth, Chuck Duggan drove in a run and Billy Cole drove in a pair to take a 7-0 lead. Jimmy Hatchey did double in two runs, but that unfortunately was not enough for Charlie's.

Rocco's 15- Lions Club 10
Rocco's brought their power bats with them in this game, as Richie Rappoli (a solo homerun), Mike Herra (a two run shot) and Chuck

Duggan (a grand slam) all helped Rocco's take another game.

Rappoli also helped with two doubles along with the homerun. Kevin Kleynan (three hits) and four RBI's helped the Lions, but unfortunately it was not enough.

Youth soccer girls champs

For the second year in a row, the Wilmington Youth Soccer Girls Under 14 A team has won the Middlesex Youth Soccer League's Division 2A Championship.

With an impressive record of nine wins and one loss for the 1992 season, The Wilmington GU14A Team successfully defended the Division 2A title which they won back in the spring of 1991 with a record of 10 wins and no losses.

The Wilmington Girls Under 14 A team has a hard working and very dedicated group of talented players who demonstrated sportsmanship and fair play and set the standard for all who will follow in their steps. Their technical and tactical abilities coupled with their sense of team play made them an incredible force on the soccer field.

The Wilmington girls under 14 team could not have enjoyed this rate of success without a solid and steadfast defense made up of Amanda Zaya, Kelly Silva, Jackie Hayden, Jill Lojek and Joanie DeMarco.

Kim Tarr kept the Wilmington net safe from attack and coordinated the defensive efforts of the team. Kim recorded five shutouts to her credit and allowed only six goals during the regular season. Kim did an outstanding job in goal and made the difference in more ways than can be counted.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Ouellette would like to thank all who supported the GU14 team. Parental support is a key factor to any successful team and this team had an abundance of that support. A special thanks to Mr. DeMarco for being there as a coach when needed.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. DeMarco will be coaching the girls JV team this year and look forward to seeing many of these girls again in the fall.

Pop Warner sign-up

The 1992 Wilmington Pop Warner season will be starting in August. Those not signed up for a football team yet are urged to call Bob Gillis at 657-5913 or Ken Redmond at 988-0864.

If your child has already registered and has not been contacted by Pop Warner about physicals, please call Ken.

Easter Seal softball

Sixty-three local teams will play softball in the Easter Seal Softball games at Livingston Street Fields in Tewksbury. They join thousands of softball players playing throughout Mass. in the 15th annual Games sponsored by Marshalls and WLVI TV56.

Wilmington teams already on the Easter Seal roster include ADS, and Ceric Fabrication on Saturday, August 8 and E.M. Parker and NAPA on Sunday, August 9.

Proceeds from the Easter Seal Softball Games support swim programs, summer camp, equipment loan, stroke support groups, physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, technology for independence and home health care for disabled children and adults.

There's still time to sign-up according to Easter Seal representative Christine Lucey. For information, call the Lawrence Easter Seal office, (508) 683-1259.

Rec playground busy

At the Wilmington Recreation Department's summer playground there's plenty to do. Participants can play basketball, ping-pong, jump rope, kickball, quiet games, active games. The children have even had a chance to show off their artistic talents by painting some beautiful t-shirts and by drawing magic masks.

Cooling off during the week was easy when Sundae Day came along - cold ice cream always does the trick. The candy hunt which was made possible by Demoulas, made for another sweet summer day.

Even with all of these playground activities, the children love to explore new places. Field trips to Funland, the Billerica Flick and Chuck E Cheese were held.

Having all these activities requires a lot of organization. Some extremely helpful volunteers were on hand to keep things running smoothly.

The week of July 10, Kerri Casella and Billy Lemos were indispensable. We would also like to thank two of the playgrounders, Meghan Sullivan and Patrick Cushing. They did a great job keeping the playground clean and helping out the other children.

During the upcoming week, a walk to Darwyn's Ice Cream Parlor for a cold treat will be enjoyed. Next, it's off to Canobie Lake Park for a day of amusements and on Friday, a rotten sneaker contest.

Wilmington played tough, carrying a 2-0 lead into the fifth inning thanks to the superb pitching of Peter Grasso and the hitting of Danny Sweet. A couple of miscues in the fifth led to three Stoneham runs, which proved to be enough as Wilmington could muster only two hits off the very tough Stoneham pitcher.

Jimmy O'Donnell has been outstanding with his leadership, toughness and unassisted play. Mike Willcox, Pat Coyne, Kevin Riley and Ralph Sirignano have all had three hit games. Andy Falanga and Danny Sweet each hit homeruns in Winchester last weekend.

Peter Grasso has emerged as the ace of the very deep Wilmington staff, with fine performances also turned in by Dennis Ingram, Terry Boland, Shawn Haubner, Willcox and Sirignano. Mark Gagliano has been the sparkplug at the top of the order and he and Josh Michaud have played excellent defense at secondbase.

Womens' rugby survives obstacles

Since the fall of 1989, the Merrimack Valley Women's Rugby Club (MVWRC) has tackled numerous obstacles and survived countless injuries to achieve their goals and objectives.

Although the team has a handful of players eager to challenge the strength of more experienced ruggers, the MVWRC is lacking in numbers. The young, upstarting club aspires to place in the top four in New England (presently fifth).

The MVWRC placed fourth in the New England Rugby Football Union (NERFU) tournament in May 1992, and placed first in the Hartford Women's tourney in June 1991. In July of the same year, the ruggers came in third in the Boston Women's Rugby Tournament, the largest women's sevens competition in the country.

The Lowell based team competes against the 1992 national champs, the Beantown Women's Rugby Club. Other teams they play are Hartford, Portland, Maine, Albany and college teams (Radcliffe, Boston College and UNH).

Since the club includes players with some, or no experience, each year they grow through improvement. According to team President, Renee Matte, rugby is mentally and physically challenging. "It's a game of endurance. Along with comradery and team spirit, rugby tests one's power and perseverance."

The MVWRC meets for practice Wednesday and Friday evenings, and competes on Saturdays. The season runs August through October, and starts up again in March.

Anyone interested in challenging their athletic skills on the rugby field, please contact Renee Matte at (508) 452-3080, or Beth Barnhill at (617) 861-0903.

Superb season

Wilmington's Lisa Crowley has just completed another superb gymnastics season.

Wilmington gymnast

Lisa Crowley completes superb season

Lisa Crowley, a 13-year-old eighth grader at the North Intermediate School in Wilmington, has finished her competitive season with her last competition at the USAIGC Nationals held in Las Vegas this past June.

This past season Lisa was a Level 9 in the USGF program. The United States Gymnastics Federation is the governing board of gymnastics in the United States, with the levels ranging from one through 10 to Elite. The Elite gymnasts make up our Olympic team.

Advancing through local meets to the state level championships where Lisa earned four gold medals, she qualified to Level 9 Regionals for the first time.

In New York at the Regionals she earned a medal on one of her strongest events, vaulting. At one of America's largest invitational, the Buckeye Classic, in Ohio, Lisa took first place on vault in the Level 9 and 10 Junior Division, as well as an award on floor and balance beam.

After a successful season at Level 9, Lisa has qualified to move into the Level 10 program consisting of compulsory and optional exercises.

She will be among a handful of the best gymnasts of this age from Massachusetts. Lisa trains at Northeast Gymnastics Center in Wilmington 20 to 25 hours weekly where she is preparing for and looking forward to the challenge of the Level 10 program. When she succeeds at this level, there is only the next step, Elite.

Golf tourney

The St. John's ninth annual charity golf tournament will be held Monday, August 31 at the Indian Ridge Country Club in Andover.

The tournament will honor Elkin McCallum, chairman of St. John's Board of Trustees, and president of Joan Fabrics Co. of Lowell.

Chairman of this year's tournament is Frank DeSanto. Honorary co-chairmen are Dave Lane and Mike Zammitti. Proceeds from the tournament, which will feature morning and afternoon flights, will go to St. John's Men's Guild pledge of $300,000 to St. John's $3.5 million capital campaign.

The entry fee for the tournament is $150.00 per person, which includes golf cart, greens' fee, continental breakfast, lunch, dinner and numerous golf prizes.

Businesses and individuals interested in playing in this year's tournament are urged to call St. John's Foundation at 452-2261. Reservations are being accepted for the morning flight with a tee off time set for 8 a.m.

YMCA summer camp

Lowell YMCA Summer Day Camp, Camp Weetamoo on Long-Sought-For Pond in Westford, is still accepting registrations for Session 2, July 20 to 31, and Session 3, August 3 to 14. Campers are girls and boys, ages 5 to 13. Activities include swimming instruction, boating, nature and pioneering, arts and crafts, sports, games, dramatics and singing, and special events. Camp is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., with round-trip bus transportation provided from scheduled stops in Lowell, Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Dracut, Tyngsboro, and Westford. Camp fees are $10 for a one-time-only registration fee, and $130 per two week session. Financial aid is available.

For information and camp program, call the camp registrar at 454-5405, or stop by the YMCA at 206 Rogers Street.

Outdoors column

Picture a hungry green torpedo

by Bill Conlon

There are fish to eat, fish that you catch for tournaments and contests, and then there is the Pike family.

The local constituents of the Pike family are Chain Pickerel, Northern Pike and Muskellunge. All Pike are supposedly great eating, but the family is just too bony for me. Pike have an extra row of small bones through the middle of the fleshy parts which makes eating them a real challenge.

Muskies are featured performers in tournaments and contests in some northern states, such as Wisconsin and Minnesota, but not here. The Largemouth Bass is the star of most fishing tournaments, although trout and salmon gain a share of attention in the big lakes of New Hampshire.

A pity. Massachusetts has plenty of native Chain Pickerel, which offer hours of fun, along with stocked Northern Pike and Tiger Muskies. Tiger Muskies are a sterile hybrid introduced to some waters to cut down on panfish overpopulations, while Northern Pike have accepted life in the Bay State, with gusto.

Pike have "taken off" in the Concord River, the upper reaches of the Charles River, and even Silver Lake in Wilmington gave up a few "keeper" size pike through the ice. A keeper pike, by the way, means 28 inches, minimum.

A Northern Pike of 15 pounds is good for a state pin, while Pickerel earn a pin at 4-pounds, 8-ounces. A mere 10 pounds (ahem) is enough to win you a state award pin for a Tiger Muskie.

Believe me, you'll have stories to tell after taking a 4-pound Pickerel in open water, and a 15-pound Pike might give you nightmares. Rumor has it that the Concord River holds a 25-pound Pike that has managed to snap the line of several anglers.

The entire Pike family is an odd clan, with unique habits.

Pike (and Pickerel, etc.) are only active during the day, and they're among the few local fish that are. As the sun sets, so does all the Pike. Also, they have the annoying habit of following your bait or lure right up to the boat, watching intently, and then they might or might not, attack. Who knows why?

Pike prefer thick, weedy ponds, although you can catch Pickerel in the Merrimack River, where weeds are scarce. In thick cover, they lie in wait, utterly motionless, waiting for some unsuspecting baitfish or frog to paddle by. They they blast out of hiding, ripping across the surface and leaving huge "V" swirls behind. Occasionally, if your luck holds, you'll enjoy the spectacle of a Pike jumping out of the water and attacking its prey from above!!

For a fun afternoon of fishing, a Pickerel expedition is hard to beat. If you can find the right place, full of little Pickerel, they'll keep you busy all day, one hit after another. I like Flint's Pond in Tyngsboro.

Their diet consists almost entirely of fish and frogs, although stories abound of huge Pike plucking the last duckling out of the line behind Mama Duck.

Try a floating Rapala right in the middle of the weeds, twitching it or using a stop-and-go retrieve, which looks like an injured minnow. The Pickerel can see the offering from a long ways away, and they'll leave a "V-wake" across the surface as they charge in for the kill. The hardest part is hanging on, waiting for the murderous fish to connect. A frog lure in the shallows works a times, but minnow imitations are easier to use and perhaps more effective.

A wire leader is acceptable to use for Pickerel or Pike fishing. While it may sound excessive, you'll soon see the need after a big Pike cuts up your line with its razor teeth.

My dad had a Pickerel Special he always used in thick weeds, and it provoked incredible strikes. He'd catch a yellow perch or two on the boat ride to the weedbed, and fillet both sides off the perch. He'd then cut the fillets into thin strips.

Dad would then sink the hook into one end of the perch fillet, and that was all -- a strip of perch on a bare hook. He'd cast the fillet along the edge of weedbeds, then retrieve it with a snapping action. After a few minutes in the water the fillet went limp, and provided an undulating, slithering motion through the weeds.

I once watched as Dad missed a big strike on the far edge of the lily pads, and the fish apparently chased the offering all the way across the weedbed, because it exploded under the fillet as soon as it cleared the pads on the near side!

Pickerel, and Pike, are easiest to catch during winter, as they stock up on food in preparation for their spawning run, which takes place as the ice starts melting. They spawn early, then seem to disappear in the heat of summer.

But they are out there. If you're out fishing in the Concord River for bass, you'd better be prepared for something much bigger, much faster and nasty-tempered to boot. There are Pike in the Concord that are as big as your leg, and they like to hit without warning. Somewhere under the boat there may be a Pike big enough to make you think twice about swimming in fresh water ever again.

Artist didn't know which way the wind was blowing

by Capt. Larz Neilson
Caroline M. Swain was for many years a school teacher in Wilmington. She was born in 1871, the daughter of a Civil War veteran named Charles W. Swain. There were two other sisters, Mary Gowing Swain, born in 1867 and Henrietta Ames Swain, born in 1873.

Caroline (born Carrie) and Henrietta taught in the Wilmington schools for many years, and after their death the High School on Middlesex Avenue, built in 1914 was named for them.

The three ladies were descendants of Capt. John Gowing, Jr., who commanded the Wilmington militia company after the American Revolution.

John Gowing Jr. served as a corporal in the company commanded by Capt. John Harnden during the siege of Boston. That company was one of three which had the duty of guarding Harvard College.

The three companies did not march to Bunker Hill, but as the battle progressed they were, one by one, sent to the hill, with Harnden's company being the last. It did not participate in the actual fighting.

Capt. John Gowing, after he was commanding the Wilmington militia, built a home for himself at the corner of what is now Lowell Street and Woburn Street. It was in that home which three Swain sisters lived, two teachers and one housekeeper.

Charles Swain was the first secretary of the Gowing Association. His daughter Caroline served as secretary during the first meeting, and held that position for over 40 years.

This writer had Henrietta as a teacher in 1921, and Caroline in 1923.

This writer, while in the seventh grade class of Caroline, was undertaking the collection of US Postage stamps, as a hobby. Caroline noted this, and there came a day when she gave Larz her collection, which consisted mainly of the Commemorative stamps of the US Columbian issues of 1893.

The U.S. Columbian Issue of 1893 was the first time that the United States paid attention to the discoveries of Columbus. It might be termed the most historic issue of all United States stamp sets because of this.

There were 16 stamps in the set, ranging from one cent to $5. They commemorated the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. The stamps were first released at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893.

Each of the 16 stamps portrays an episode in the life of Christopher Columbus. The one cent stamp portrays Columbus on the morning of Oct. 12, 1492 and the two cent stamp shows him landing on San Salvador, in the Bahamas.

This story is accompanied with an enlarged two cent stamp picture.

That particular stamp was the subject of ridicule, by ships' officers, back in the 1930s, when this writer was serving on vessels that frequently made voyages between New York and the Panama Canal.

Christopher Columbus was one of the finest of seamen. The stamp portrayed his landing as being with the wind behind him. He was landing on the east side of the island, with the wind blowing from the east.

No seaman who was worthy of his name would have done that, and the ship's officers knew that. Columbus, whether it was at San Salvador or at another island, would have sailed around to the west side, the lee side, before landing. Good seamanship dictated such action.

There was also a cross erected on the east side of San Salvador, to show where Columbus was thought to have landed.

That item, too, was the subject of ridicule from ship's officers.

Dr. Patterson acquires Health Stop facility

William Patterson, M.D., M.P.H. has purchased the Wilmington Health Stop on 66B Concord Street and has established the New England Health Center, specializing in primary care and preventive medicine. Physicians at the center have a special interest in working with patients to maximize their health and well being, teaching self-care and preventing illness and common injuries.

Working with specialists and resources at New England Memorial Hospital, the center provides a complete range of health care services. New England Health center has on-site lab, x-ray, lung function, and hearing testing, and a complete physical therapy program, Rehabilitation Concepts. Although patients are encouraged to make appointments, New England Health center is committed to convenient care for the local community and will see people who walk in for medical problems which need urgent evaluation and treatment.

Dr. Patterson is one Massachusetts' leading specialists in occupational health. He serves as occupational physician for Hewlett-Packard, provides occupational medical services for many area industries and government agencies, and is on the faculty at Boston University School of Public Health.

Dr. Patterson is a graduate of Harvard College and the University of Vermont College of Medicine. He completed his internship and residency in primary care-internal medicine at Boston City Hospital. He is board certified in internal medicine and occupational medicine and has been practicing in Wilmington for 10 years.

82 Brown Street,
Tewksbury, MA

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Kenneth E. Marshall and Donna J. Marshall to First Eastern Mortgage Corporation, a corporation duly established under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, dated December 19, 1985 and recorded with Middlesex North Registry of Deeds at Book 3291, Page 280, and with the Middlesex North Registry District of the Land Court at Book 137, Page 131 and noted on Certificate of Title No. 26866, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction on the mortgaged premises, located at 82 Brown Street, Tewksbury, Massachusetts hereinafter described, at 11:00 o'clock, A.M. on the 25th day of August A.D. 1992, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage.

To wit: "PARCEL I: The land in Tewksbury, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, with the buildings thereon, being shown as Lot of "Charles C. Libby" on the registered land plan 20616B, drawn by W.T. Fairclough, Engineer for Court, dated February 10, 1949, as approved by the Court, filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of a portion of which is filed with Certificate of Title 7817, and bounded and described as follows:

NORTHEASTERLY by Brown Street, 50 feet;

SOUTHEASTERLY by Wolcott Street, 80.20 feet;

SOUTHWESTERLY by Lot A on said plan, 50 feet; and NORTHWESTERLY by Lot B on said plan, 80.20 feet.

PARCEL II: That certain parcel of land situated in Tewksbury, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth, bounded and described as follows:

NORTHEASTERLY by Brown Street, 50 feet;

SOUTHEASTERLY by land n/f of Charles C. Libby et al, 80.20 feet;

SOUTHWESTERLY by Lots A and C, 50 feet; and NORTHWESTERLY by Lot C, 80.20 feet.

All of said boundaries are determined by the Land Court to be located as shown on subdivision plan 20616B, drawn by W.T. Fairclough, Engineer for Court, dated February 10, 1949, as approved (sic) approved by the Court, filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of a portion of which is filed with Certificate of Title No. 7817, and said land is shown as Lot B on said plan.

So much of the land hereby registered as is included within the limits of Texas Road and Wolcott Street is subject to the rights of all persons lawfully entitled thereto in and over the same, and there is appurtenant to the land hereby registered the right to use the whole of said Texas Road and Wolcott Street, as shown on said plan, in common with all other persons lawfully entitled thereto.

For Grantor's title, see deed of Richard L. Kres et ux recorded herewith.

Subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, rights of way, improvements, outstanding tax takings, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens, or claims in the nature of liens, and existing encumbrances of record created prior to and/or after the date of sale, and subject to all tenancies and/or rights of parties in possession.

For authorization to foreclose see order of the Land Court in First Eastern Mortgage Corporation vs. Kenneth E. Marshall; Donna J. Marshall, Land Court Case No. 177654.

TERMS OF SALE:

The highest bidder will be required to deposit FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($5,000.00) in cash, bank treasurer's check or certified check with no intervening endorsements at the time and place of the sale, and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid to the Mortgagee in cash, by certified check or by bank cashier's check in or within thirty (30) days from the date of sale at the offices of Foster & Bibeau, Attorneys at Law, 1445 Main Street, Tewksbury, Massachusetts. In the event the successful bidder fails to fulfill the agreements herein or in the relevant memorandum of sale contained, or fails to pay the purchase price at the appointed time and place, the deposit shall be forfeited and become the property of First Eastern Mortgage Corporation. The undersigned Mortgagee reserves the right to reject any and all bids made at the foreclosure sale, to amend and change the terms of the sale by announcement made prior to foreclosure sale, and to continue the foreclosure sale to such subsequent date as the Mortgagee may deem advisable. In the event that the successful bidder(s) at said auction shall default in purchasing the within described real estate according to the terms of this Notice of Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate and/or the terms of the Memorandum of Sale executed at the public auction, the Mortgagee reserves the right, at its election, to sell the mortgaged premises which are the subject of said default by foreclosure deed to the respective second highest bidder at said auction upon the same terms and conditions as described above. The successful bidder at the sale shall be required to sign a Memorandum of Sale at the time and place of the sale containing the above terms and all other terms and conditions of the sale.

The description for the premises contained in said mortgage shall control in the event of a typographical error in this publication.

construction of the Building or as a result of the settling or shifting of the Building to the extent of said encroachment. The Unit is subject to an easement for the benefit of the other Units to use the pipes, wires, ducts, flues, conduits, cables, public utility lines and other Common Elements located in the Unit and serving other Units or Common Elements.

Subject to and with the benefit of Easements to Mass. Electric and New England Telephone (Book 2520, Page 463 and Book 3263, Page 313) insofar as applicable to said unit or to the common areas and facilities of which said unit may have an interest.

The Unit is further subject to the provisions of said Chapter 183A as it may be amended from time to time; the restrictions and easements set forth or referred to in the Master Deed; the provisions of the Master Deed and By-Laws of the Association and Amendments thereto, as the same may be amended from time to time by instrument duly recorded with said Deeds, which provisions together with any amendments thereto shall constitute covenants running with the land and shall bind any person having at any time any interest or estate in the Unit, his family, servants and visitors as though such provisions were recited and stipulated in full herein; and all rules and regulations adopted under or pursuant to the foregoing documents and such taxes attributable to the Unit and Common Elements for the current year as are not due and payable on the date of delivery hereof.

There is excluded from said Unit so much of the Common Elements as are located within said Unit.

For title, see Unit Deed to mortgagors dated August 6, 1986, and duly recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 3639, Page 123.

Said premises will be sold together with the right to use the Common Elements in common with the owners of other units, as provided in said Master Deed, as amended, and subject to and with the benefit of all rights and easements set forth or referred to in said Master Deed, as amended, the Condominium Phasing Lease dated November 23, 1989, duly recorded in said Registry of Deeds; the said Master Deed, the By-Laws of the Condominium Association, the Rules and Regulations of said Condominium Association, as amended; the provisions of Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 183A, as amended, and subject also to any change in the percentage of undivided interest in the common areas and facilities (the Common Elements) as provided in duly recorded amendments to the said Master Deed.

Said premises will also be sold subject to and with the benefit of all rights of way, restrictions, easements, improvements, covenants, orders of condition, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens, leases, tenancies, and existing encumbrances of record created prior to the mortgage, if any there be, which are entitled to precedence over said mortgage.

A deposit of Two Thousand Five Hundred and 00/100 ($2,500.00) Dollars will be required to be paid in cash, bank draft or certified check, by the Purchaser at the time and place of sale, and such cash or deposit check shall be shown to the auctioneer prior to the commencement of the bidding in order for a person to be entitled to bid. The balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash, bank check or certified check in or within thirty (30) days thereafter, at the offices of Berger and Hyde, P.C., 90 Main Street, Andover, Massachusetts, 01810, as Attorneys for the said Shawmut Bank, N.A. The Deed shall be delivered at the time the balance of the purchase price is paid as aforesaid. Other terms to be announced at the time and place of sale.

Cook's corner

Ricotta Macaroni Salad

- 1/3 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup green pepper
- 1 cup ricotta
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- salt and pepper to taste
- dash of paprika
- 1/2 lb cooked elbow macaroni
- lettuce

Combine first eight ingredients, blending well. Mix well with hot macaroni. Chill and serve on a bed of lettuce.

Potato Cheese Pie

- 3 pounds potatoes
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup grated parmesan or romano cheese
- 2 eggs, beaten
- salt and pepper to taste
- bread crumbs
- shredded mozzarella cheese

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Boil potatoes, in jackets, until tender. Peel and mash. Add butter, milk, grated cheese, eggs, salt and pepper. Beat until creamy and light. Butter an 8 inch pie plate and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Arrange half of the potato mixture in a layer, in the prepared pie plate, cover completely with mozzarella cheese and top with remaining mashed potatoes. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and to with butter. Baked until top is golden brown and crusty.

You could double the recipe and use a larger glass baking casserole dish. I have also used instant mashed potatoes.

Snooze views

One rule of hammock courtesy, of course, is to not shade your neighbor's pool with your size 13's. They might not invite you to go for a swim.

Forget the lawn, hang out in a hammock

by Bill Conlon

We've lost something vital, something sweet, in our headlong rush to do things better, faster and NOW!

We've forgotten how to relax. Weekends, once the balm of the working stiffs, are now just days of the week to do things we can't do on work days. Sunday? A day of rest? Never heard of it!

Mow the lawn. Change the oil in the cars. Paint the boat. Build new shelves, go to the dance recital, take the kids for ice cream, rebuild the fence, and then collapse into bed on Sunday night, too pooped to yawn. A few hours later we're back in the old trenches again on Monday.

But there is a symbol of what the weekends should be. One that takes us back to another age, when weekends were meant for relaxing.

The Hammock. Once the talisman of suburban living, they are now increasingly rare. Too bad.

A hammock is an excuse to just drowse away the weekend. Work on your snoring technique. Blow off the chores.

With a little care in set-up and the proper frame of mind, a hammock can bring long hours of Olympic-quality loafing. The key is to save energy whenever possible. Try at all times to avoid wasting energy.

First, the right hammock must be selected.

Loosely-woven "fishnet" sleeping slings are out, because they might leave waffle marks on your tushie. Far better is a soft, strong fabric; as durable as canvas and as firm as a candidate's promise. It should also be porous, to let rainwater run out, because sleeping in a puddle might make you toss and turn, wasting all your vital energy.

Next, the hammock must be wide enough. A hammock-for-two is the ideal, but only if used solo. (If you are adventurous enough to try and co-habitate in a hammock, then you obviously cannot fathom hammock living. Maybe you should find extra chores to do, like washing the dog.) If your hammock is wide enough, you won't fall out, which is a big waste of energy.

Next, you need two stout trees. (A steel hammock frame is considered tacky.) Planting two good trees and waiting is a healthy approach, but it may take awhile. And finding just the right pair of trees may require you to set up your sling-bed in the neighbor's yard, which is fine if he doesn't whine about property rights and all that drivel.

The ideal support trees will hold any amount of weight, and shade is key. There's nothing sweeter than drowsing in the shade. Ahhhh. It makes you yawn just to think of it!

The hammock should be placed high enough to clear the ground at peak load, but low enough so you can reach your drink or the radio without stretching. Heaven forbid you should do so much work! This is your day off, bunkie!

Be ready to raise your hammock a few inches every weekend, as the need arises, to clear that incessant lawn of yours. Damn thing insists upon getting taller every weekend. Have some neighborhood kid mow it during the week, when the noise won't interrupt your loafing.

Now you're all set. Climb into the bag, and get ready to refresh your soul.

Children are allowable only for refilling your drink. If they make noise, sell them and hire domestic help. Your dear spouse will gladly bring all your meals, but it may be stretching the point if you ask her for a chamberpot. Then again, she might! Give it a try!

Check your local noise by-laws to see if police will arrest any heretic who insists upon using a chainsaw or lawn-mower within earshot. A portable phone is terrific, because you don't have to get up, but leave the ringer off unless you're calling out. Ringing phones use up energy.

The proper mental state for using a hammock, as outlined by Chinese philosopher Wo Ahm Fat, is to lay limp in the sling, close your eyes, and count how many different bird songs you can hear without making the slightest move. The ideal mental state is sometimes accompanied by a nasal rasping noise, involuntary closure of the eyes and a temporary loss of consciousness, but these are good things! Really.

If you enjoy listening to the baseball game on the radio, shut it off in the seventh inning. The final two innings of the game may be stressful, and stress must be avoided.

With any luck, you can languish in the sling from late Friday until Monday morning. Wear an old T-shirt, don't shave, and try to avoid standing up. Just lay there like a bag of potatoes, until sleeping no longer amuses you.

A hammock can bring meaning to your weekends, relaxation to your brow, and the local board of health to take a look at your property.

Forget 'em. They're just jealous.

Jazzercise: have fun while keeping fit

by Arlene Surprenant

Some of the women are dressed in leotards and tights. Others have chosen a looser costume of shorts and tee shirt. All of them are mirroring the cool down movements of Karen DiCecca, owner and instructor of the Jazzercise Fitness Center on Main Street in Wilmington, as she twines one leg over the other on a platform in the front of the room.

Jazzercise is a dance fitness program which gives an aerobics workout. Unlike many other fitness programs, Jazzercise combines the art of dance with the beat of popular and oldies tunes to make exercise fun. Devotees learn the dance lingo — terms like chasse or short steps to the side, triplets, and jazz square. They learn to start slow with a six minute warm-up then build in intensity as they follow a 30 minute cardiovascular workout to burn fat. They slow down then work on abdominals, legs, and the upper torso for a total 60 minute experience that keeps them coming back for more. All along, they are cautioned to keep moving and work at their own pace.

The benefits may not be obvious to the casual observer but they are there. According to Karen, Jazzercise not only burns fat and aids in weight loss but it also relieves stress, tones and firms muscles, strengthens heart and lungs, and helps build balance and especially coordination. It also puts less impacts on joints than high impact aerobics.

Participants need not have a dance background because the program is "very basic with easy, follow-the-leader steps," said Karen. What they do need, however, are good aerobic sneakers which offer support during the various dance routines. Karen herself goes through a pair every few months as she heads classes several times a week. On this particular day she is heading three sessions because some of her part time instructors are on vacation. Part timers include veteran Joyce Flanagan, Laura Fahey, Pat Galef, Liz Douglas, and Kathy St. Jean. All instructors have been through training workshops at regional headquarters in Manchester, New Hampshire. They have also passed a physiology test and been trained in CPR.

Jazzercise, explains Karen, has become very popular with all ages from 12 years on up.

"This is fun; you forget that you're exercising," said the instructor. DiCecca goes on to add "We try to make it flexible because everyone has such crazy schedules. There's no long term contract; you don't have to sign your life away."

The flexibility, apparently, is what appeals to fitness aficionados, many of whom come to the Wilmington center, children in tow, to take advantage of the babysitting downstairs. Local moms Odette Kent and Melanie Sinclair have been attending for the three years DiCecca has been running the program. Odette is enthusiastic about all aspects of Jazzercise.

"Thank God it's here. I think the location is wonderful. And you're not locked into one class — it's flexible," said Odette.

"It's fun, it's flexible, and it gets me out of the house," sums up Melanie, who continued with classes while she was carrying her son Kyle, now one year old. Both mothers take advantage of the babysitting available for a nominal fee.

Though Jazzercise had its start 20 years ago through founder Judi Sheppard Missett, it quickly spread from the western part of the country until now there are almost 5,000 instructors offering classes throughout the United States and in more than 30 other countries.

Karen bought into the California based franchise three years ago and began leading classes in area churches or wherever she found empty space and local interest. A year ago she took over her present location in the center of town. The building contains a large, airy room with air-conditioning for the workouts, a small boutique area for the sale of colorful fitness outfits with the Jazzercise logo, and a room downstairs for the children.

Besides choreographed dance sessions, Karen also offers a relatively new class in Jazzercise, similar to the new step aerobics. Though this class is currently offered only at 8:30 a.m. on Mondays, Karen has plans to expand offerings in the fall. On Wednesday evenings she offers a 45 minute Fast and Fit class and a Stretch and Tone session. A total of 19 classes are offered seven days a week. In addition, residents interested in a "sensible, new" eating plan are encouraged to learn more about the Rainbow Food Plan. This plan is under the direction of a certified staff member and teaches members how to avoid counting calories and, instead, rely on planning weight loss menus around each food group. New this year, too, are Jazzercise birthday parties which allow the birthday child and her guests to dance their way through shorter Jazzercise routines. What the children seem to like best, though, is talking or singing into the microphone on the small stage, laughs Karen.

For a postcard listing the center's schedule or more information, residents may reach Karen at 658-0087.

Remembering the 50's

The Dominators

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

Hot rods, music, hot rods, girls, hot rods, cruisin' and hot rods were many of things that marked the life of a teenager and those men into their early 20's during the 1950's and John T. Brackett's book "The Dominators" (Marcus Press, $14.95) pretty much covers the field.

Brackett's self-published book is his memoirs of his friends and acquaintances in the Dominators of Watertown, a club that the author helped co-found and which he served as vice-president for much of its existence.

It traces the life of Brackett from the age of 14, when he first became interested in cars in 1954, until about 1961 when wedding bells started to break up the old gang.

Brackett admits that the book contains some enhancement of the truth but that 80 to 90 percent of it is real fact. It is also laced with the music of the day as Brackett recalls many of the songs and the groups that sang them on the radio.

He stressed that none of the facts contain "sex, drugs or violence, although a couple of the kids had fistfights (which are described in the book)."

Stories about girls are kept at a minimum but Brackett lets the reader know that the opposite sex did share some space in the minds of club members.

One item that has not been cleaned up is the street talk language, as Brackett attempts to recreate some of the conversations word for descriptive word.

The story contains items of interest to many facets of readers, especially those rekindling their love for the hot machines that were made from the parts of many cars of various makes and years.

However, it is a story of human interest as well. Brackett uses a subtlety in describing the insecurity of teenage youths who want to belong but must get over fears of rejection.

He takes the trip down the road of loyalty and to the fork where the decision must be made to make a break or stay with the gang.

At the age of 18, Brackett, in the guise of his main character Jack Parker, made that decision and dropped out of Boston College (just as he did in real life) to remain in the Dominators.

The Dominators were a real life club. They rode the streets of Watertown and Brighton and traveled to places such as Adventure Car Hop, the hot, Route 1, Saugus, restaurant of the era.

As Brackett explained during an interview, the main goal of the Dominators was to build hot rods and to try to change the perception that many people had of hot rodders.

The first step the club took after forming was to be chartered by the Watertown Police Department. This entailed drawing up a set of rules and regulations that were strictly followed.

Among these were regulations such as any member being given a speeding ticket would have to pay the fine to the courts and a matching amount to the club.

However, one rule of the club was only broken and enforced one time. Brackett recalled that any member of the club who was caught driving while under the influence of alcohol was immediately dropped from the Dominators.

The club also had courtesy cards printed and members would hand them out to motorists who were in need of help on the roadways.

The card stated: "You have been assisted by a member of the Dominators."

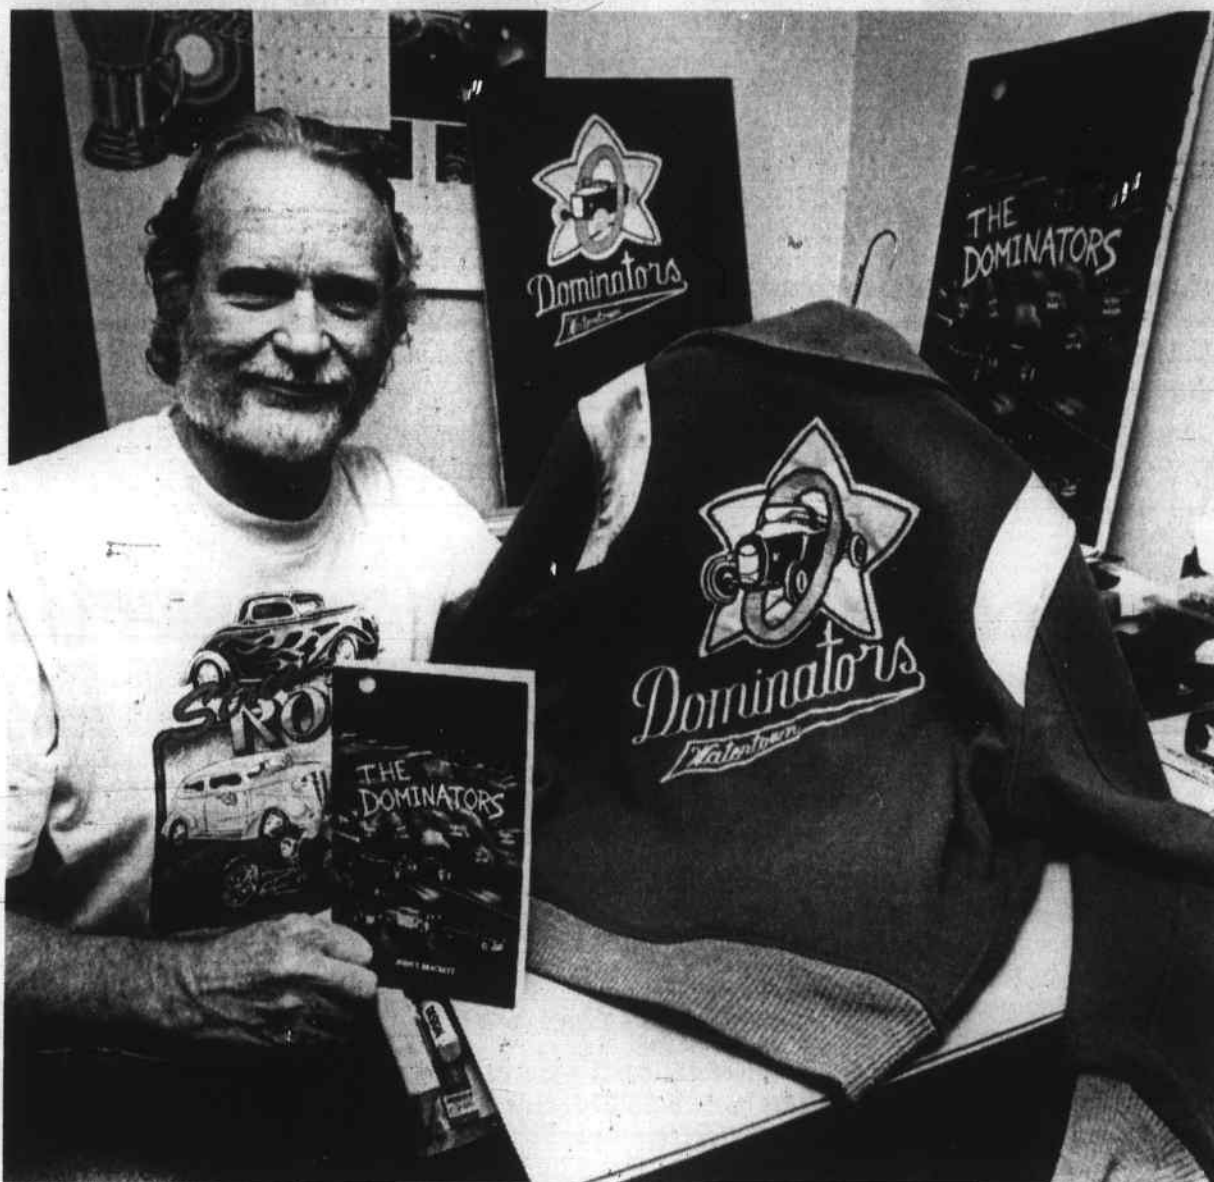

"A club striving to show rodding AS IT IS! NOT AS PEOPLE THINK IT IS. For further information contact: Ray Murphy" (the club's first president).

The Dominators contains a continuing story line and Brackett has even included a former member of another hot rod club who keeps reappearing as the villain.

It is a book about ingenuity and describes life as it was lived on the drag strips of Orange, Sanford, Maine and Charlestown, Rhode Island.

The story of the conception of The Dominators and its recent publication is almost worthy of a book in itself.

Dominators S-4

THE JACKET DOESN'T quite fit but John T. Brackett, author of "The Dominators," keeps it as a memento of the hot rod club he helped to form in the 1950's. He is also surrounded by the artwork his daughter, Kerry, painted and he used as the front and back covers of the self-published book. (Don Young photo)

WW II Planes come to Westover

The sky over Westover Air Force Base will again rumble with piston engines and propellers when the airplanes that won World War II return for the Great New England Airshow on July 24, 25 and 26.

Fifty years after Westover served as a training and staging base for World War II bombers and fighters, many of the same type aircraft will be on display for the airshow. The privately owned historic aircraft are expected to help make the Great New England Airshow the third largest airshow in the United States this year.

The line-up of about 30 World War II "Warbirds" will include the B-17 Flying Fortress "Fuddy Duddy" which was a personal transport plane for General Dwight Eisenhower. The bomber was seen in the movie "Tora, Tora, Tora."

Also on display will be the B-24 long range bomber which carried the war into the heart of Europe, and the B-25 Mitchell medium bomber, of the type

ORGANIZERS OF A RECENT FASHION SHOW sponsored by the Center for Plastic Surgery raised $6,000 for the American Cancer Society. Carla Vara, the Center's treatment coordinator and chairperson of the event, is seated third from the left. Nancy Kelly, Area Director of the Cancer Society, is standing third from the right. Proceeds went to the Society's Middlesex Junction Unit.

Fashion Show helps Cancer Society

Hemlines weren't the only thing that rose around Boston in May. So did revenues from a fashion show and dinner sponsored by Stoneham's Center for Plastic Surgery to benefit the American Cancer Society.

The 2nd annual benefit fashion show, held at the Nahant Country Club, raised over $6,000 to benefit the Cancer Society's Middlesex Junction Unit. "That's twice what we raised last year," an exuberant Carla Vara, treatment coordinator at the Center reported recently. "Everyone had a wonderful time, enjoyed the fashions and models, and learned something about how they can reduce the risk of cancer."

The show also featured medical experts discussing prevention and treatment of some common cancers. It was organized by Vara and her associates at the Center for Plastic Surgery. The Center is associated with New England Memorial Hospital and Boston University Medical Center.

Several models were cancer survivors who had undergone reconstructive surgery. "Their presence in the show was really wonderful. They looked absolutely stunning," said Gurmander S.

Kohli, MD, Medical Director of the Center.

Doctor Kohli and Doctors Manohar Rao, Allen Shepard and Richard Kingsbury provided the educational portion of the program. Gianna Boutique of Winchester, Images of Woburn, the Limited II of Cambridge and Ralph DeConto of Bartell's, Boston, provided the fashions.

Fashion show attendees were also treated to a gourmet dinner and a preview of the Center for Plastic Surgery's new computer imaging system which shows people how their features could change if they had various types of plastic surgery.

The funds were donated to the American Cancer Society's Middlesex Junction Unit which offers many community service programs, several of which are held at the Center for Plastic Surgery.

"At The Gables, my mother didn't have to compromise her financial security to ensure her health care."

I know that moving wasn't easy for mom. I suppose that I was more worried about her living alone than she was. I just didn't feel secure. What if there was an emergency? So, when she confided to me that the house was becoming a burden, we started to look. The Gables offered the most. She lives there today. Her monthly rental fee covers all of the services and amenities that initially attracted us. There was no entrance or endowment fee, so my mother's financial security was assured. And The Gables' Assisted Living Program will allow my mother to live independently should her health needs change. The Gables was the right move. For both of us."

If you'd like to retire to a luxury community where health care and financial independence do not preclude one another, we invite you to visit The Gables At Winchester. To arrange your personal tour or receive information, please send us the coupon or call us at 617-756-1026.

Nazareth Academy awards

Our Lady of Nazareth Academy recently held commencement exercises. Following a Mass of Graduation, members of the Class of 1992 received their diplomas from Mrs. Madeline Bartlett, principal of the Academy.

The Awards Ceremony for the Class of 1992 was also recently held. Seniors received awards and recognition in a variety of areas for their outstanding achievements.

Local students graduating from Our Lady of Nazareth Academy are Suzanne Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Cronin, 16 Briscoe Street, Woburn. She has been an active participant in class committee work while at Nazareth Academy. Suzanne plans to continue studies at Middlesex Community College.

Christine DeAngelis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeAngelis, 25 Appleton Road, Wakefield. She has been a member of the Drama Club Stage Crew, the Yearbook Staff (photographer), the Basketball Team and the Softball Team. During her senior year, Christine was a captain of the Basketball Team and the Softball Team.

At the Awards Ceremony, Christine received the Technical Theater Lighting Award. In the fall, Christine plans to begin studies for a degree in Nursing at Fairfield University in Connecticut.

Amy Galdi, daughter of Mary Galdi, 95 Audubon Road, Wakefield, has been a member of the H.O.P.E. Club, the Student Government, the Basketball Team (manager), and the Curriculum Committee. During her senior year, Amy was the Executive Producer of the Musical Play.

At the Awards Ceremony, Amy received the I Dare You Award. This award is presented to a student who has shown well-balanced personal development.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

MALDEN - Butt out is the word at Malden Hospital which has just become one of the first community hospitals in the area to implement a plan to create a totally smoke-free environment.

A committee of both smoking and non-smoking hospital personnel recommended the policy which was expected to cause some problems although several staff members already report that they have cut down on the number of cigarettes they smoke during the work day, and some report added incentive to quit smoking entirely.

According to Malden Hospital President Stanley Krygowski, a few other area hospitals are joining Malden in pursuing an aggressive no-smoking policy. And Malden Hospital Executive Vice President Robert Rulison of Reading reports that the hospital commends the staff for cooperation which made the transition "fairly easy."

STONEHAM - Stoneham's composting program which cost the town $27,772 to implement shows a $9,257 profit since it began last October.

Despite the increased workload it entails in the Department of Public Works, Town Engineer Robert Grover terms the program well worth the effort - it met the state mandate of removing leaves from the solid waste stream and saved money also.

Having collected and composted 570 tons of leaves since the fall, the Town has avoided $37,029 in RESCO incinerator tipping fees.

WOBURN - In order to keep recreation programs going during these financial times, Director Thomas Jones and the Woburn Recreation Commission recently investigated the possibility of allowing selected vendors to open on city grounds while programs are in progress - in return for contributions to the Recreation Department.

According to the plan, other vendors would be required to stay off city property but could work from the street.

The Recreation Department budget is $173,000 for fiscal '93, including $51,000 for salaries, $61,000 for programs and $60,000 for maintenance.

This year's budget cuts mean that the city's three public pools will close a week early, about the middle of August, because the budget for lifeguards was cut from $20,000 to $16,000.

The cuts also resulted in the reduction of playground leaders from two to one at the Clapp School, Green Street and Library Parks.

And in matters of love or money ... the tennis courts are suffering also.

MELROSE - Former Stoneham Town Engineer Joseph MacKay has been named Engineer and Superintendent of Public Works in the City of Melrose.

Half of Boston area mothers are working fulltime jobs

Both mothers and fathers in the Boston area are working hard, according to a recent survey of families about family work habits. When asked what kind of work the mom in the family does, a majority indicated that mom works full-time for pay and her primary reason for working outside the home is to earn money for necessities. Most families are using child care, perhaps to enable both parents' working.

Over 950 families throughout the Boston area were asked about their family's work practices during the Ground Round's most recent "Family Counts" survey managed by the independent research firm, Decision Makers of Tiverton, Rhode Island. Even with a majority of moms working outside the home, surveyed families thought dad worked the longest hours in the family, and if he could have any job in the world, families felt dad would want to be a movie star. Children are contributing to the household work, with most expected to clean up their toys.

The Family and Work "Family Counts Survey" was conducted July 10 through 12 at the 20 Ground Round restaurants in the Boston area. Ground Round has initiated the ongoing "Family Counts" survey program to support its commitment to the American family and give voice to family opinions on a variety of topics.

When asked about the work habits of the mother in the family, Boston area families in the survey reported that a full 58 percent of moms work full-time with pay, with 24 percent working part-time with pay and 18 percent working full-time without pay. The primary reason surveyed families said mom worked outside the home to earn money for extras for the family or herself, while other moms work because they enjoy the work (15%) or to save money for later use (12%).

With 82 percent of moms working full-time or part-time outside the home, the question of who works the most hours in the family was of interest to the "Family Counts" survey. Fifty percent of families said that dad works the longest hours, with 22 percent saying mom works the most hours and 17 percent saying mom and dad worked the same number of hours.

Children contribute to family work as well. When asked which household chore other than cleaning up their bedroom was most expected of children in the family, the top choice, at 35 percent, was picking up toys and putting them away, followed by taking out the trash at 26 percent. Other chores expected of kids are setting or clearing off the dinner table (20%), taking care of the family pet (12%) and doing yard work (7%).

Finally, when asked if dad could have any job in the world which would he most want, 30 percent of families surveyed said dad would want to be a movie star. Twenty percent reported that dad would want to be a doctor, with a life guard at a beach (19%), President of the United States (18%) and an astronaut (13%) completing the category.

Brachett remembers the "Dominators"

From S-1
Brachett, who has gone on to graduate from Northeastern University with a degree in design engineering, had heard about the death of one of his old friends. That happened about three years ago and the ensuing wake stirred up old memories.

"I felt bad because I hadn't seen him in years," Brachett said. He recalled writing a four-page letter to the friend's widow and letting his wife read it before it was sent.

After that, Brachett said he hunted up as many of the former club members as he could find and in fact the Dominators had a reunion in January, 1989.

Brachett had already started to send letters to the opinion pages of a number of national published hot rod magazines and during the reunion many stories were recalled about the incidents and drag races the club was involved with.

While reading the hot rod magazines, Brachett noticed that many people were interested in hearing more stories of the hot rod clubs of the 1950's.

He then heard that one of the top hot rod chroniclers, Henry Felsen, had retired from writing.

According to Brachett, one of his best subjects in school was English Composition. With this in mind "I thought I would give it (writing the book) a try."

The project took 18-months but got a boost when he was laid off from his last job due to the economic times.

"I didn't know if I had enough stories, but after 250 pages I stopped writing," Brachett said.

As the result of his reunion efforts, Brachett was able to get help from some of the club members with the stories. He was also able to get permission to use the real names of some of the characters in the story.

As the book was getting down to the publication date, one of Brachett's friends and a main character in the book, Charles J. "Chicki" Maniachi died and Brachett has dedicated the book to him.

With his lay-off Brachett was able to devote his full time effort on the book and during the last two-months of writing he spent "14-hours a day, seven days a week to finish the book."

After the writing was over, and his wife, Mary, had proof read it, the real fun started.

Brachett said he had read the Middlesex East story on Philip Dorn Hebert and his exploits to publish his fire story "Flames."

According to Brachett, that pushed his decision not to even attempt to try publishing the book through the major houses.

"I had read so many stories about trying to get published, that I decided to publish it on my own.

Thus, with the help of "The Self-Publishing Manual" by Dan Poynter, a true family effort was started and Marcus Publications was formed to publish and eventually distribute the book.

Brachett was able to turn to his cousin, John Owen, who owns John Owen and Company, a technical publishing company, for help in layout and set-up for printing. Owen's wife, Chris also helped with the editing.

Brachett's daughter Kerry, 20, a junior at the University of Massachusetts - Lowell, did the artwork that was used for the front and back covers.

A sister, Nancy Plasse, helped with the typing.

Brachett is now trying to sell the book at car shows and hot rod club shows throughout New England and hopes he can get local book stores to show an interest.

As for his next project, Brachett has found that hot rodding and cars are still in his blood. He has recently helped son Keith, 18, rebuild an engine of his souped up Pontiac.

At present, youngest daughter Kim, 16, is a junior in Wilmington High School and is not thinking about cars.

According to Brachett, another book is a possibility. He has a rough outline for a mystery based on hot rodding.

As to the other members of the Dominators, one is owner of a construction company, one drives for Federal Express, another is a high school teacher, and another has a computer rental company. Two others are managers of a hardware store and manager of a Chrysler dealership parts department.

If you can't find a copy of The Dominator in a local book store, you can contact Brachett at Marcus Publishing Company, Post Office Box 83, Wilmington, MA 01887. With shipping and sales tax, the book costs $18.20.

SENIOR CENTER

"Seniority Steppers," a walking program for older adults has kicked off, thanks to Melrose-Wakefield Hospital which is offering free individualized group walking with health care professionals around Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield. The group meets at 10 a.m. and walks Quannapowitt every Tuesday and Thursday throughout the summer, everyone at his or her own pace.

The program also includes periodic free lectures on related health topics such as nutrition, weight control, stretching, strengthening muscles wisely, and more. For more information, call Melrose-Wakefield Hospital at (617) 979-3090.

WW II Planes come to Westover

From S-1

which General Jimmy Doolittle made famous in his 1942 raid on Tokyo.

They will be joined by the TBM Avenger three seater torpedo bomber, similar to the aircraft flown in combat by President Bush when he was a young Naval aviator in the South Pacific.

A PBY Catalina, nicknamed "Dumbo," will be on display. Wartime duties for Catalinas included rescuing downed pilots. Some were also painted black and at night swooped down on Japanese ships.

A Russian Yak 11 fighter and trainer, which was purchased by its owner in Czechoslovakia, and a Japanese Kate torpedo bomber will be on the flightline.

Other historic aircraft on display will include the P-51 Mustang, P-40 Warhawk, P-47 Thunderbolt, and A-12 Invader. Invaders were flown in support of ground troops in World War II, Korea and Vietnam.

The Great New England Airshow will also feature displays of modern weapons, including the F-117A Stealth fighter, U-2 spy plane and the Patriot missile. Each of the three days there will be aerial demonstrations by the Italian Air Force's jet aerobatic team "Frecce Tricolori" (Tricolor Arrows) and the Army's Golden Knights precision parachute team.

Westover's gates will open to the public at 8 a.m. each day. Admission and parking will be free. For more information, call (413) 557-SHOW.

FINANCIAL PLANNING SEMINAR IN BURLINGTON

Tucker Anthony, Inc., the Boston-based financial services firm which is celebrating 100 years of service to investors, will be sponsoring a seminar on Estate and Financial Planning in the Nineties on Wednesday, July 29, at the Burlington Marriott Hotel from 7 to 9 p.m. Attorney James Maselan, of the Boston law firm Maselan & Jones, will speak on ways to minimize estate taxes and avoid probate. Other topics covered will include protecting your assets from the ravages of nursing home expenses and ways to earn tax-free and tax-deferred income. The seminar is free but seating is limited. For reservations call Barbra King at (617) 270-2237.

SINGLES DANCE IN WILMINGTON

A singles dance will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Middlesex Avenue in Wilmington on Saturday, July 25, beginning at 8 p.m. The donation is $6. The dance is sponsored by the Reading Chapter of TSL, telephone (617) 942-0165.

NURSES AIDE TRAINING COURSE

For nurses aides, or those interested in becoming a nurses aide, Winchester Hospital now offers "Nurses Aide Training Course," which meets the needs of state requirements for certification.

The course includes learning about activities of daily living, understanding residents and residents rights, infection control, safety procedures, nutrition and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

The course will run from July 27th through August 12th from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Winchester Hospital Health Promotion Center at 23 Warren Ave. in Woburn.

For price information, contact Winchester Hospital at (617) 756-2220.

MORNING WITH THE ALCOPTS

Experience life as a neighbor child of the Alcott family. Come meet the Alcotts at home in Orchard House. Spend a morning with "Marmee," Anna, Louisa and May Alcott and enjoy their lifestyle while joining in on their activities.

Children are encouraged to dress in the manner of the time: long skirts for girls, and suspenders over a shirt with pants rolled up to the knees for boys. As part of the "time travel" children will tour Louisa May Alcott's home, hear her tell a story, and play old-fashioned games. Refreshments will be served.

The programs will take place from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on the following dates: Monday, July 27th, Monday, August 24th and Wednesday, August 26th.

Reservations are required. Fee: $15 per child. For children who are kindergarten age to entering grade 5.

Checks, names, addresses, telephone numbers and ages of participants should be sent to: Orchard House, P.O. Box 343, Concord, MA 01742.

Orchard House is located at 399 Lexington Rd., Concord; telephone (508) 369-4118.

HOME OF ALDEN'S OPEN DURING SUMMER

Sometime prior to 1632, John and Priscilla Alden built a small house in Duxbury where they raised their ten children. In 1653, John and his third son, Jonathan, built a larger house a short distance away. Archaeological studies indicate the frame of the original home was moved and added to the new house as the kitchen, dining room (where members of the family were born and died), and buttry. Unique features in the house include the powdered clam and oyster shell ceiling in the "great room" and the "cambur" panels in the "best room." The foundation of the original house can be viewed by walking a short distance through the woods.

The Alden House has always been in the possession of the Alden family. It is currently owned by the Alden Kindred of America, Inc., which will hold its annual meeting at the John Alden House on Saturday, August 1. Membership is open to descendants of John and Priscilla Alden's ten children, 69 grandchildren, and 395 great-grandchildren. Incidentally, in case you are worried about how Myles Standish made out, he married a girl named Barbara and about 25 years later their son, Alexander Standish, married Sarah Alden, daughter of none other than John and Priscilla Alden. Captain Standish and John Alden remained friends and neighbors throughout their lives.

The John Alden House is open to visitors until Sunday, September 6, every day except Mondays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The house is located at 105 Alden Street, Duxbury, off Route 3A, and there is ample parking. A number of other interesting historic houses and sites are nearby, including the old cemetery where John and Priscilla Alden and Myles Standish are buried.

Admission is $2.50 for adults; $1 for students; free for children under the age of 12 accompanied by an adult. The maximum charge per family is $10.

Free brochures, membership information, and a fact sheet about the Alden family are available from Alicia Williams, Alden Kindred Genealogist, 18 Martin's Cove Road, Hingham, MA 02043. Please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TEACHING CPR TO SAVE CHILDREN'S LIVES

The national statistics on infant and childhood injuries are staggering. According to USA Today, choking and suffocating are the leading accidental killers of babies under the age of one.

Upon successful completion of the program, participants will receive a one-year certificate from the American Heart Association.

For price information and to register call Winchester Hospital's Education Department at (617) 756-2220.

GARDENING DAY HELD ON AUGUST 1

Beautiful flower gardens, and bountiful vegetable patches are results of very hard work, and an essential part of any successful garden includes composting - the focus of this year's New England Gardening Day at Strawberry Banke Museum, August 1.

The day-long event will begin with garden tours of Strawberry Banke's period gardens which include the elaborate Victorian Garden at the Governor Goodwin Mansion, 17th-century garden behind the 1695 Sherburne House, and the perennial garden at the entrance to the museum. Garden tours will take place throughout the day.

George Estes of the Plant/Biology Department at the University of New Hampshire will explain the importance of composting for gardens in a detailed slide demonstration at 11 a.m.

With the growing popularity of herb gardens, Strawberry Banke presents Tanya Jackson of the Bramble Herb Patch Farm, who will give a presentation on herbs.

Strawberry Banke Museum Horticulturalist Anne Masury will provide an in-depth tour of the Thomas Bailey Aldrich Garden, a Colonial Revival Garden steeped in literary history of the area.

New England Gardening Day would not be complete without the annual Strawberry Banke MOW-OFF - a yearly race using old fashioned push mowers, beginning at 2 p.m. Mowers will be able to whet their appetites with blueberry pie at 3 p.m. after the Blueberry Pie Contest. Since blueberries are a late summer fruit, bring in a blueberry pie and get in for free. Restauranters from the area will be judging the contest and pieces of the pie will be sold after prizes are awarded.

Strawberry Banke Museum is a nonprofit, waterfront, neighborhood museum reflecting four centuries of history. For more information, please call (603) 433-1100.

ART EXHIBIT OPENS DURING FOLK FESTIVAL

Jokes and cartoons will adorn the Brush Art Gallery and Studios this summer, in the Market Mill Complex, 256 Market Street, Lowell. The unusual exhibit, entitled "Pink, White, and Blue Collars: American Labor Laughs, includes photocopied jokes, fake inter-office memos, and cartoons gathered from workers in industries across the U.S.

"Pink, White, and Blue Collars" opens Thursday, July 23rd, at 6 p.m., as a kickoff celebration for the 1992 Lowell Folk Festival. During the festival exhibit hours are Friday, 11 a.m.

importance of the wilderness area within Fort Devens, and the recreational opportunities in the area.

Canoeists are welcome to come as individuals, couples, and families, and bring a picnic lunch. River travelers will get maps; children will get written guides for a nature hunt along the way. Also available at the launching site will be copies of the book, The River Ran Wild, by Lynn Cherry, about the cleanup of the Nashua River.

Those who do not have canoes but would like to participate can rent from Groton Nursery (Route 225, West Groton), at a 50 percent discount if they mention C.O.R.E. and reserve a canoe in advance by calling (508) 448-9927.

The trip will take people through the South Post of Fort Devens, now a wilderness area used by the Army for outdoor training, and surrounded by national, state, and local wildlife refuges. Terminus is the Oxbow Refuge parking lot, where riders will be available back to cars, if people choose not to return by canoe.

FORUM WILL ADDRESS

PORNOGRAPHY & SOCIETY

"Pornography and Society," a public forum cosponsored by Men to End Sexual Assault (M.E.S.A.), will be held in the Rabb Lecture Hall of the Boston Public Library in Copley Square on Saturday, July 25th, beginning at 1 p.m.

The program will begin with a presentation by noted feminist scholar Gail Dines, professor of Sociology at Wheelock College, who will discuss violence in pornography, and how pornography shapes our definition of masculinity. Please note that some of the slides in this presentation are of a graphic nature and could be disturbing to some viewers.

Following Professor Dines' lecture M.E.S.A. volunteers will facilitate a discussion on pornography and free speech. Audience participation will be encouraged.

The lecture and discussion are free and open to the public. Seating is limited. For more information, please contact the Boston Public Library at (617) 536-5400, Ext. 336.

FREE SAILING AND

SUNSET REGATTA

Following a day of free sailing for the public, local sports celebrities, media personalities, elected officials and corporate VIP's will gather along the Charles River to join skippers from Community Boating's Junior Program on July 30, for a sunset celebrity regatta, the second annual "Kids Sail the Stars." This unique Boston event showcases the talents of today's young people and raises money for the Junior Program in which kids can learn to sail, row and windsurf all summer for only $1.

The day begins at 10 a.m. with free sailing for the public. Experienced sailors will be waiting to give rides and free instruction. At 4:30 p.m. the celebrity race gets under way with a skipper's meeting. After the race, spectators are invited to join kids and their "stars" on the dock for an awards ceremony, photo session, clambake and dancing.

The celebrity regatta is a chance for kids to demonstrate their sailing accomplishments to celebrities and the public. In 16 foot sailboats flying the name of a team or corporate sponsor, the young skippers will enlist the help of a local celebrity and together they will navigate their way to the finish line.

All activities on July 30 take place at Community Boating, located on the Esplanade behind the Hatch Shell. Clambake tickets, $18 per person. To find out more about free sailing or how to become involved with the regatta, call (617) 523-1038. All facilities are fully accessible.

PIPE ORGAN AND PIANO DUO

Internationally known organist George Wesner is joined in concert at the Hammond Castle Museum in Gloucester by his concert partner pianist Fred Davies on Friday, July 24th at 8 p.m. in a pipe organ and piano concert featuring the theme "Changing Seasons." Featured on the program will be selections including Hooked on Classics, Summertime, Autumn Leaves, Sleigh Ride, Spring is Here and Country Gardens.

George Wesner is organist at the Radio City Music Hall in New York. He is also the Director of Music and Fine Arts at the Faith Church of Worcester, PA. Wesner has served five churches in the New York Metropolitan area including Brookdale Baptist Church in Bloomfield, NJ where he developed "The Splendor of Christmas" featuring New Jersey's first 110 voice living Christmas tree. He has also produced and directed a Festival of Holiday Music sponsored by the Tampa Tribune in Florida during which he served as guest conductor for the Tampa Symphony Orchestra. He recently appeared with the world renowned New York staff band of the Salvation Army.

Fred Davies held his first position as a church organist at the age of 13. He has performed in Youth on the March a coast to coast religious program for ABC-TV, served as staff organist for Steinway and Sons, NY; and as assistant to the Command Chaplain of the US Army, Europe in Heidelberg, Germany. Although employed as an officer for Citibank, N.A., Davies continues to be actively engaged in a widespread ministry of music, presenting concerts at churches, conferences and conventions. Davies and his concert partner Wesner were the keyboard artists during the National Religious Broadcasters Convention in Washington, DC.

Tickets are available by phoning Hammond Museum at (508) 283-1643. Reservations are suggested for this popular annual concert of these two gifted musicians. In advance, tickets cost $10; at the door, $12.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

—The following Middlesex East area students have won state awards for their outstanding verbal and/or mathematical ability in the first annual Johns Hopkins Young Students Talent Search.

From Reading: Steven Biller, Kathryn Chomsky-Higgins, Meghan Faulkner, Scott Given, Adam Lanthier, Gregory Nissen, Heather Shannon, and John Walsh.

From Stoneham: Christopher Feudo and Seth Gregory.

From Wakefield: Joseph Harty and David Wadler.

From Winchester: David Lerman.

They are among the 134 fifth and sixth grade students from public and private schools in Massachusetts who scored at or above the quantitative mean scores of eighth and ninth graders on the Secondary School Admission Test. Last fall, 558 Massachusetts students were identified by their schools as eligible for the search.

—After a second round of discussions, the Lynnfield School Committee has decided against adopting the voluntary school choice plan for the 1992-93 school year. Less than 30 communities across the state have adopted school choice.

—The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's new National Environmental Education Grants Program has named Reading Memorial High one of eight Massachusetts recipients of a $5,000 grant for the Vernal Pool Curriculum Project which will involve high school students in Middlesex and Essex Counties.

Workshops in vernal pool certification will be presented at interested schools; and trained RMHS students, along with their project manager, will work on gathering basic data and independent investigation of vernal pool organisms and habitat.

Other grant winners in the state are the Franklin Park Zoo; the Massachusetts Audubon Societies of Worcester, Milton and Easthampton; West Roxbury High; the Quebec-Labrador Foundation of Ipswich; and the Technical Education Research Center of Cambridge.

—Although the schools would have received more than $50,000 worth of wiring and television equipment and although Superintendent of Schools Dr. David Driscoll recommended the acceptance of the free news program, the Melrose School Committee has voted 1-8 to turn down the Whittle Communications offer to bring Channel One to Melrose secondary schools.

The committee made its decision after viewing the type of programming which would have been offered.

—Meghan McCormick and Mike O'Reilly were named the outstanding female and male athletes of the Woburn High Class of '92 at the Woburn High Senior Awards Banquet.

McCormick was team MVP and league all-star in soccer, basketball and track while earning 11 varsity letters and attaining all-scholastic honors in soccer.

O'Reilly was a league all-star in football and hockey, earning letters in hockey, football and track, and receiving all-scholastic honors in football and hockey.

The awards were presented by the Torrice family in memory of grandparents Grace and Anthony Torrice.

—Giving itself A+'s in patriotism, respect, integrity, dedication, and excellence, the Wakefield Teachers' Association - with pride in its report card - took second place and $300 in Wakefield's annual Fourth of July Parade for its float, "Children ... our special interest."

Each Wakefield School was represented by a local child.

"A Stranger Among Us"

by Rochelle Flynn

"A Stranger Among Us" Starring Melanie Griffith, Eric Thal, John Pankow, Mia Sara. Directed by Sidney Lumet. Written by Robert J. Avrech. Produced by Steve Golin, Sigurjon Sighvatsson, Howard Rosenman. Rated PG-13.

A tough New York cop, played by Melanie Griffith, goes undercover in a strict, Hassidic community to catch a killer. As the cop adjusts to the rigid religious lifestyle of this close knit community, she discovers a peace of mind that had heretofore eluded her. As she falls for the pious son of a local Rebbe, or religious leader, his family finds her to be a refreshing, if somewhat freakish, visitor.

Okay, so "A Stranger Among Us" sounds like the second cousin of "Witness," the 1985 movie in which detective Harrison Ford hides out in an Amish community and falls for local lass Kelly McGillis. No arguing the fact that originality is not this flick's, or Hollywood's, strong point. Luckily, the end result is entertaining anyway.

Though this is a detective story, it's more about the people involved and not the mechanisms of the mystery. You may not be able to figure out the plot immediately, but it doesn't take much to see where it's headed. However, the characters are quite distinctive from most in the genre. We learn about these people, their backgrounds, their beliefs. In most cop movies realism is a close-up of a gunshot wound; here it comes from within the people. Not that it's all chatter. There's enough cops and robber action to keep the story moving along.

Griffith's character is a cowboy. A cop so macho no one wants to team up with her after her renegade antics put her last partner, and lover, in the hospital with a blade in his belly. Wanting to keep her out of trouble, her captain gives her a low key case in the Hassidic community. A jeweler had disappeared with three bags of diamonds. His family and friends insist he's not that kind of guy. Griffith, whose seen everything, figures otherwise. And then they find the body.

Figuring it to be an inside job, Griffith moves in with the Rebbe and his grown son and daughter. The daughter (Mia Sara) helps her learn the ways of the Hassidim. The son (Eric Thal) discovers he loves Griffith's mind. The attraction is mutual. And as she roots around for her murder suspect, Griffith also discovers that there is much to be gained from the gentleness and caring of these people and their absolute faith. There is nothing dramatic in her change, but as her character grows, so does our interest.

Director Sidney Lumet was very careful not to make the Hassidic people all fuzzy and warm. The movie is not completely free of hokum, but Lumet displays the vitality of these people as well as the freedom that comes with such a concrete sense of community, even if their lifestyle seems repressive to outsiders. It is a lesson not lost on Griffith. The actress turns in one of her better performances, adding an edge to her persona that is just hard enough to make her cop come to life. And Thal matches her cynicism with a toughness that stems from his unwavering, passionate beliefs. Their teaming makes what is really a mediocre plot come to life and make us care.

Short Takes

Prelude to a Kiss is a modern day fairy tale about a young bride (Meg Ryan) who switches souls with an elderly man on her wedding day. Alec Baldwin turns in a heartfelt performance in a story that suffers from a radical change in personality, moving from light comedy to intense drama. A bit strange, but intriguing anyway. Rated PG-13. ***

Cool World is a disappointing mix of animation and live action. Gabriel Byrne plays an animator who crosses into the inky world of his imagination, only to discover Cool World exists with or without him. Kim Basinger is the sexy "doodle" who wants to become a real person. But the movie has so many plot holes and is so slow moving it may put you into a cartoon coma. Rated PG-14. * 1/2

A League of Their Own chronicles the first year of the All American Girls Professional Baseball Team, begun during WWII when there weren't enough men to fight the war and man the diamonds. An ensemble cast made up of Geena Davis, Tom Hanks, Lori Petty, Rosie O'Donnell and Madonna do wonders with this heartfelt, if somewhat sappy story. Don't expect too much depth and you'll find this to be great summer fun. Rated PG. ***

Boomerang stars Eddie Murphy as a womanizing ad exec who learns about sincerity from Halle Berry after he meets his libidinous match in Robin Givens. Murphy has toned down a lot and there is actually some warmth in his performance, especially in the smaller scenes. But this battle of the sexes is more than a little crass and not particularly funny. Rated R. **

Unlawful Entry stars Kurt Russell as a night club owner whose sexy school teacher wife, Madeleine Stowe, has become the fatal obsession of a demented cop, Ray Liotta. It's an interesting setup and the cast is top notch, but this becomes just a classy horror flick with pretensions of grandeur. Although there are some palpable thrills in this picture, thanks to director Jonathan Kaplan, the plot was based in from a made-for-TV movie. Rated R. ***

Monster in a Box is Spalding Gray's hilarious, and personal, tale of avoidance as her procrastinated the completion of his novel "Impossible Vacation" for six years. His accounts of a Russian Film Festival, a fact finding mission to Nicaragua and interviews with UFO abductees are both funny and poignant. Gray lets us into his psyche and tells us what he knows of human nature. Rated PG-13. ****

Batman Returns is a huge improvement over director Tim Burton's last comic book caper. Gotham City is done up in Fascist architecture, Michael Keaton's Batman and Michelle Pfeiffer's Catwoman suffer from split personalities and The Penguin (Danny DeVito) just needs a hug. The plot is meandering and Christopher Walken's energy vampire just sort of drops out of sight, but not before we've had a real Bat treat. Rated PG-13.  1/2

MBTA offers train for weekend trip to Lowell Festival

The MBTA is running a special "Festival Train" on Saturday, July 25th, from Boston's North Station to the Lowell Folk Festival in Lowell.

The Algiers Brass Band of New Orleans will perform at Faneuil Hall Marketplace at 11 a.m., Saturday. At 11:20 a.m., the public is invited to "join the second line" in a traditional New Orleans Street Parade with the Algiers Brass Band to North Station. The whole parade - band and all - will board the Festival Train at North Station and, upon arrival in Lowell, will wind through the Lowell Folk Festival.

The performances and parade begin at 11 a.m. outside Faneuil Hall. The Festival Train departs North Station at 12 noon. Train fare to Lowell is $3.50; tickets should be purchased in advance. Saturday's last train returning to Boston is at 9 p.m.

The Lowell Folk Festival is an entirely free, three-day event featuring traditional folk music and dance, craft demonstrations, dance parties, street parades, and ethnic foods. The festival takes place July 24-26, Friday, 5:30 to 11 p.m., Saturday, noon to 11 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 7:30 p.m. on five outdoor stages in historic Lowell. For more information call (508) 459-10000 (V/TDD).

kind of screwball comedy where nothing much has to make sense, as long as it's funny. Goldie Hawn plays a consummate liar who pushes her way into Steve Martin's lonely life. Hawn just moves into Martin's empty house, the one he built for Dana Delany before she dumped him. Hawn then tells everyone, including Martin's folks, that they are married. You can connect the dots from there. This is fun, frothy, and lighter than air. Rated PG.  1/2

Howard's End weaves the emotional story of two Edwardian families, one unbending and proper, the other free spirited and open. The two families are joined through marriage, resulting in some surprising changes for all parties. The film belongs to Emma Thompson as a strong, intelligent woman who brings the families together and then keeps them going. Rated PG. ****

The historic home of the Opry turns 100

When the Union Gospel Tabernacle first opened its doors in 1892, only a prophet could have foreseen that a century later 200,000 devout country music fans would annually pay homage to it as a shrine and The Mother Church of Country Music.

This year Nashville's tabernacle, now renowned as the Ryman Auditorium, is celebrating its first century. The grand old edifice is perhaps best known as the long-time home of the Grand Ole Opry. The Ryman also has a rich history beyond the popular radio show which it housed for only 31 of the structure's 100-year history.

change the building's name to the Ryman Auditorium.

Because of its size and remarkable acoustics, the Union Gospel Tabernacle was a popular place for entertainment as well as religious services and political rallies.

Opera, symphonies, bands and ballet, popular in turn-of-the-century Nashville, brought entertainment to the Ryman stage including tenor Enrico Caruso, Eduard Strauss and the Vienna Orchestra, Victor Herbert and the Pittsburgh Orchestra, John Philip Sousa and his band, and the New York Symphony directed by Walter Damrosch.

Ziegfeld Follies and Earl Carroll's Vanities, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans; and the Hollywood Ice Revels of 1944.

At the same time the Ryman was gaining recognition as an entertainment site, "The Solemn Old Judge," George D. Hay, was creating a tradition that was to become an international phenomenon and the world's longest running radio show -- the Grand Ole Opry.

The Opry began as the WSM Barn Dance in 1925, broadcast from a small radio studio in downtown Nashville.

Soon, crowds began to fill WSM's corridors on Saturday nights, and more space was needed. WSM then built its Studio "C," which would accommodate 500 -- but the demand grew.

The Opry was moved to a movie theater, then to the Dixie Tabernacle with its sawdust floors and rough benches. In 1939, it relocated in the War Memorial Auditorium, and WSM began charging -- 25¢ -- to keep the crowds down. It didn't work.

Finally, in 1943, the Opry moved into the Ryman Auditorium, and the two remained together for 31 years.

The Ryman could seat 3,000, and rarely was a seat vacant on a Saturday night. The lines for Opry admission began to form early on Saturday morning, and by late afternoon, they extended around the building and down Broadway.

The Ryman was not air conditioned. On summer nights, the temperature could soar to over 100 degrees, but no one seemed to mind as long as there was music.

The Opry began to attract fans from across America and foreign countries, and the Ryman Auditorium became a landmark for country music.

In 1963, WSM purchased the building from the Ryman Auditorium Corporation, and the name was officially changed to the Grand Ole Opry House.

In 1971, the Ryman was listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Finally in the 1970s, WSM had to decide whether to renovate the building or to move to a new home. A decision was finally made to move, and on March 16, 1974, President Richard Nixon officially opened the Opry's new home at Opryland USA.

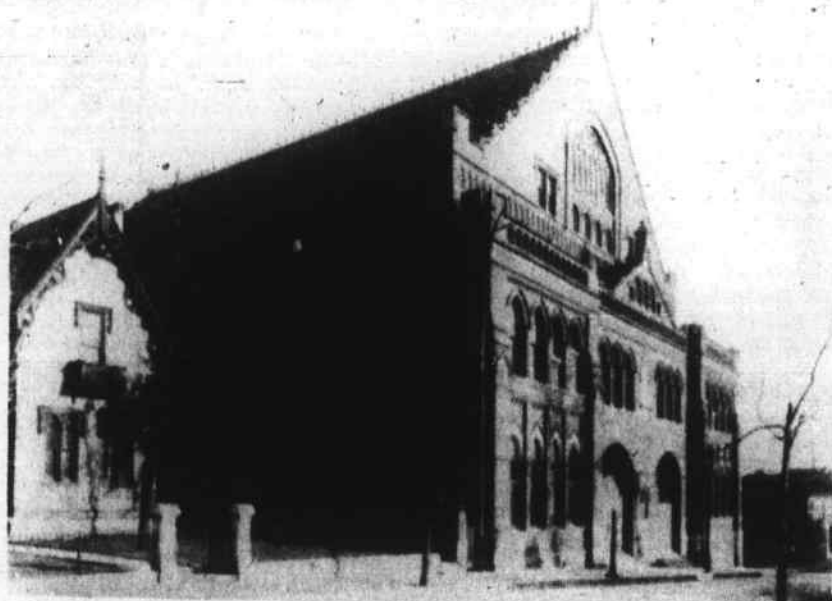

The new structure is handsome and equipped with the latest technical facilities for radio, television and stage production. It has an audience capacity of 4,400.

Still, on Friday and Saturday nights, rarely is a seat left untaken when the Grand Ole Opry goes on the air.

But even though the Opry doesn't broadcast from the Ryman anymore, the building is still open to the public and is maintained as an historical landmark. It is open daily from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m. for visitors who pay $2.50 to walk across the stage and stand in dressing rooms once used by their favorite country music stars.

The Ryman continues to be the most popular stop on sightseeing tours. Today the tabernacle is a shrine to thousands of country music devotees who wander on stage, make their picture against the old barn backdrop and stand at the microphone. They are still moved by the spirit of American history and country music that remain alive inside the Ryman's hallowed walls.

THE UNION GOSPEL TABERNACLE, as it looked upon completion in 1892.

"There have been several chapters in the Ryman's storied history but it has always contributed substantially to the spirit and character of Nashville," said Steve Buchanan, marketing manager for the Grand Ole Opry. "First, it served as a religious hub during the South's spiritual revival of the 1880's, then as a cultural stage for 'The Athens of the South' and finally as the home of the Grand Ole Opry for Music City USA."

It was designed by architect A.T. Thompson. Many of the workmen reduced their fees to work on the building, and people from all religious denominations donated money.

When Captain Ryman died in 1904, 4,000 people attended his funeral in the tabernacle, and, led by Jones, they voted on the spot to

The Ryman became the city's theater in 1920 when Nashville's last legitimate theater was turned into a movie and vaudeville house.

From the 1920's to the 1950s, some of the stars who performed on the Ryman stage were dancers Isadora Duncan, Anna Pavlova and Martha Graham; humorists Will Rogers, W.C. Fields, Harpo Marx and Mae West; actors Helen Hayes, Katharine Hepburn, Basil Rathbone, Orson Wells, Bela Lugosi, Ethel Barrymore, Maurice Evans; singers Marian Anderson, Helen Traubel, Nelson Eddy, Jeanette MacDonald and Grace Moore; classical musicians Arthur Rubinstein, Ignacy Paderewski, Yehudi Menuhin and Jascha Heifetz; Spike Jones and his Musical Depreciation Revue, the

Trying to deal with child abuse

In recent years, experts have declared the child abuse and neglect problem an epidemic; cases have overflowed our hospitals, foster care homes, social worker case loads and court dockets. The Bush Administration has issued a national call to arms, and responding to that call, the Department of Health and Human Services has developed an initiative that will involve local communities, businesses, school, parents and children.

The Extent of the Problem.
•Child abuse was formally recognized by the medical profession in 1961 as the "battered-child syndrome."

•An estimated 2.4 million cases of suspected child abuse, child sexual abuse and child neglect are reported to child protective agencies each year. Since 1980, reports of child abuse have quadrupled.

•Investigations confirmed over 1.5 million cases of child abuse and neglect in 1990. And more than three children die each day in the United States from abuse and neglect.

•The link between substance abuse and child abuse has strengthened over the years. Parental abuse of alcohol and use of other drugs has been identified as a major factor contributing to child maltreatment and death. It is estimated that nearly 10 million children under age 18 are affected in some way by the substance abuse of their parents.

•Child maltreatment often has negative short and long term effects on children's mental health and development. For example, abused and neglected children frequently suffer drops in IQ and an increase in learning disabilities, depression and drug use.

•The effects of child abuse are sometimes obvious even decades later. The effects are often pervasive: mental, physical and social in nature. Suicide, violence, delinquency, drug and alcohol abuse and other forms of criminality are frequently child-abuse related.

•Studies of adults show that 15% to 38% of women report experiences of various types of sexual victimization during childhood and adolescence, and about 10% of men report sexual abuse during childhood and adolescence.

•Although child abuse occurs in all racial, ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic groups, physical abuse and neglect are more likely among people in poverty. Reflecting the high rates of poverty among ethnic minorities, minority children enter the child protection system in disproportionately large numbers.

The Administration's Plan to Fight Child Abuse

Secretary Sullivan challenges all Americans to take personal responsibility to curb the skyrocketing number of cases. The HHS four-part initiative:

•Call national attention to the problem and provide ways we can all make a difference through the "Show Your Care" campaign.

•Involve local government and civic leaders in the effort-through national and regional meetings - to build coalitions and local strategies for preventing abuse and neglect and helping vulnerable children and families.

•Integrate service between HHS and other federal agencies to increase the effectiveness of services related to child abuse.

•Streamline the department's ability to respond to the needs of vulnerable children and those serving them.

President Bush and Secretary Sullivan are providing better coordination of programs to improve service to families, increased funding for research, improved treatment services, better financing for treatment services for families, improved collection of child welfare and child health data that has bearing on child abuse and neglect, improved recruitment and training of child protection workers and increased public awareness of child abuse and neglect.

The Department of Health and Human Services takes the position it is not enough to treat the results of child abuse and neglect, instead the root causes and societal trends need to be addressed.

•HHS is supporting prevention programs to stop child abuse before it occurs. For example, an average case of child abuse costs at least $2,000 for an investigation and short-term treatment. And the costs increase significantly when a child must be hospitalized or put in foster care.

•The National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (NCCAN), the federal authority on child abuse and neglect, issued more than $65 million in grants to states and organizations for research, demonstration projects in prevention, intervention and treatment programs in 1990.

•One $19.5 million grant program, the Emergency Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Services Program, addresses the problem of child abuse and neglect by substance-abusing parents.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

I've had many vacations and have been to many countries but the past two weeks visiting the Maritime Islands were the very best. I especially enjoyed Prince Edward Island and the locale of the wonderful story of Anne Shirley (with an 'e'), better known as "Anne of Green Gables." A beautiful Irish song says, "A little bit of Heaven fell from out the sky one day. And landed in the ocean in a place far, far away." (Ireland). Well folks, part of Heaven must have fallen in the Maritime Islands too. I'll repeat what I have said and written many times, "The women from 'Down East' don't need cosmetics of any kind. They are 'naturally beautiful'."

My Aunt Nora greeted me on my return saying, "On behalf of many readers, I thank you for NOT having to read your stupid column for two weeks. I didn't tell her that George and Arlene Dudley of Charlottetown read Woodchips almost every week. It is sent to them from George and Marion Gould of Reading. More later, folks...At my birthday party recently my sister, Maureen (the original spitfire), sang this song to me, "Happy birthday to you. You belong to a zoo. You look like a monkey and you write like one too!" Coming from her they were indeed kind words.

How many men does it take to change a light bulb at the Woburn Elks? "Five" - Robert Burns to hold the bulb and Jimmy Quinn, Joe Altavesta, Bob Neal and Ron Harris to turn the step-ladder...Dennis Tully was writing a story for his home work. He asked his mother, "Ma, does 'waterfront' have a 'hydrant' in the middle?"...Kathy got one of those pesky summer colds. She came home from the doctor's office complaining, "Forty dollars, and all the doctor did was 'paint' my throat!" "Well," I shouted, "what did you expect, 'wallpaper'?"

William Blake, the English Poet, hit it right on the head with this saying, "The truth that's told with bad intent beats all the lies you can invent!"...So you think that "She sells seashells at the seashore," is a tongue twister - try this one, "A box of biscuits. A box of mixed biscuits. And, a biscuit mixer." Say that without faltering and you may be an announced for that powerful little five watter in Nashville, Tennessee.

Personality Winners - Paula C. Boermeester, Susan T. Diffley, David M. Lochiatto, Susan R. Fantasia and Louise A. Nelson, all of Burlington; Scott D. Bradley, Jeffrey H. Croft, Martin W. Croyle, Paul M. Cullinane and Joseph S. Giordano, all of Reading; Gina E. Perra, Christine E. Whaler, Roy L. Beane, Matthew Collins and Margaret A. Goodhue, all of Wakefield; Colleen M. Kenny, Cynthia M. Pasciuto, Robert H. Crepinsek, Jonathan Furey and Stephen E. Preston, all of Winchester; Rep. Anthony P. Giglio, Lori Pelligrino, Mary E. MacInnis, Steve Shea and Lisa Bailey, all of Medford; Police Chief Neil Buckley, Christine Proctor, Police Ptl. Dianne Terrio, Marc and Eddie Freni and Anthony Liberti, all of Malden; Lisa Durrell, Principal Paul Perry, Nancy Aldrich, Detective Sgt. Edward Hayes and Jack Armour, all of North Reading; His Honor Judge Francis P. Cullen, Margaret M. Pinkham, Thomas Kinton, Corey Canada and Jaimie KilBride, all of Woburn; Kenneth A. Currie, Harold Paicopolos, Elizabeth Cady, Dean Bruno and Rep. Paul Casey, all of Stoneham.

Also, Tom and Lucy Hazelton, Carmine Mastrogianni CPA, Peter and Donna Aloisi, Edward Flaherty CPA, Stella of "Stella's Diner" and Major General James Geary of the G.A.R., all of Lynnfield; Jimmy and Florence Fanikos, Neil and Nancy Collins, Judy Tenaglia, Donna Lubenski, Kayle Cargill and Mary Flaherty, all of Melrose; Kristen Daley, Alice McCauley, Happy Anniversaries to Hayward and Jean Adams (50th), Eddie and Grace Reynolds (38th), Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gilligan (37th), and Paul and Carol Riley (32nd), all of Wilmington. (I've been married for 35 years and I'm still in love with the same woman -- if Kathy ever finds out she'll kill me!); Ernie and Gail Hamilton (37th) wedding anniversary congratulations, Amy Kuchinski, Dawn Porter, my good friend and "number one fan" Eddie Sargent and Jimmy, the Baker, and his lovely wife Patricia Millward, all of Tewksbury.

Ron Harris, a high wire man with the Boston Edison Electric Company, told me that he has a part-time job as a bartender helping to keep the town "half-lit!"...This chip may "Perk" you up. A coffee salesman's divorce petition was denied for "insufficient grounds!"...Folks, are you tired of all those commercials on television? Well, a neighbor of mine was so incensed with them that she vowed she would NOT buy the products in the commercials that interfered with her watching the soap operas. Alas, she died last month of starvation.

I was sitting on my favorite stool in Mickey Reardon's thirteenth parlor when I belched. Kevin Fisher tapped me on the shoulder and shouted, "How dare you belch before my wife!" "I'm sorry Kevin, I apologize. I didn't know it was your wife's turn to belch."...When the Tall Ships paid a visit to the port of Boston, it reminded me of Henry Hudson and his son, Benjamin, when they sailed up the Hudson River in their ship the "Half-Moon." On the second day the ship hit a sandbar and was grounded. No amount of huffing and puffing could free the half-Moon so Henry Hudson turned to his son Benjamin and said, "I guess that's Al-Beny!" (Albany)...

My father would tell everybody, "I taught the Chipper every thing I know and he's still stupid!"...Balboa, the Spanish Conquistador, came upon a great big body of water so he immediately radioed King Ferdinand and told him of his discovery. An excited King radioed back shouting, "Where is it Balboa, be more specific!" "That's it - that's it,"

Balboa declared, "it's the 'Specific' Ocean!"

When I was a vacuum cleaner salesman my first two orders were "Get OUT and Stay OUT!" I wasn't a bit discouraged so I asked a kid sitting on the front steps, "Hey kid, is your mother home," "Yep," he said, "she's home." Well I rang the doorbell, rapped and then kicked the door with no response. "Hey kid, I thought you said your mother is home." "She is home but I live across the street!"

Dreamboat is Denise Lyons of Woburn.

Super Star is Richard Hamel of Winchester.
